Claim Blue Law Means 'Ghost Town'

By MATT SPIRENG

WOODSTOCK

Stores throughout Ulster County may be forced to close on Sundays in the near future as the result of enforcement of the "Sunday Blue Law" which is scheduled to begin this weekend in the Town of Woodstock.

Section Nine of the State General Business Law, concerning the sale of goods on Sundays, will be enforced in the Town of Woodstock as the result of orders issued by the District Attorney, Francis J. Vogt.

Some merchants in the township predict that Woodstock will become a "ghost town" if stores are closed on Sundays when much of the tourist trade is conducted. Many of the stores depending on Sunday business will have to close their doors for good, it was suggested.

Vogt explained that although the Blue Law is not normally enforced in most areas throughout the state, he has received complaints about stores in Woodstock being open on Sunday. "The law is extremely unpopular," Vogt said, "but it is on the books, and it is my obligation to enforce it."

The law states, "All manner of public selling or offering for sale of any property upon Sunday is prohibited except . . ." A number of exceptions are then listed, including "prepared tobacco, bread, milk, eggs, ice, soda-water, fruit, flowers, confectionery, souvenirs, newspapers, magazines, gas, oil, tires, cemetery monuments, drugs, medicine and surgical instruments."

Other exceptions include food, "which may be sold, served, supplied and delivered at any time before ten o'clock in the morning," and meals, which "may be sold to be eaten on the premises where sold at any time of the day."

Special

Many store owners were issued warnings last Sunday by the Town Constabulary. According to Chief William Waterous, any stores open this Sunday offering items in violation of the law will be cited.

Penalties can include forfeiture of all goods offered for sale in violation of the law. The minimum penalty is a fine of from $5 to $10 or imprisonment for not more than five days, or both.

Whether their stores are normally open on Sunday or not, most Woodstock merchants contacted by The Freeman are strongly opposed to the law.

Many consider the law "archaic," discriminatory and even "unconstitutional."

"I happen not to be open on Sunday, but I think it's absolutely idiotic," said Ann Leonard, owner of a gallery and boutique on Tinker Street.

Warren Hutt, owner of the Robert John Shop, suggested that many artists' galleries and other stores, including his own, might not be able to remain in business. "Twenty-five per cent of my sales are on Sundays," Hutt said. "Take that away and I'd be a damn fool to stay in business."

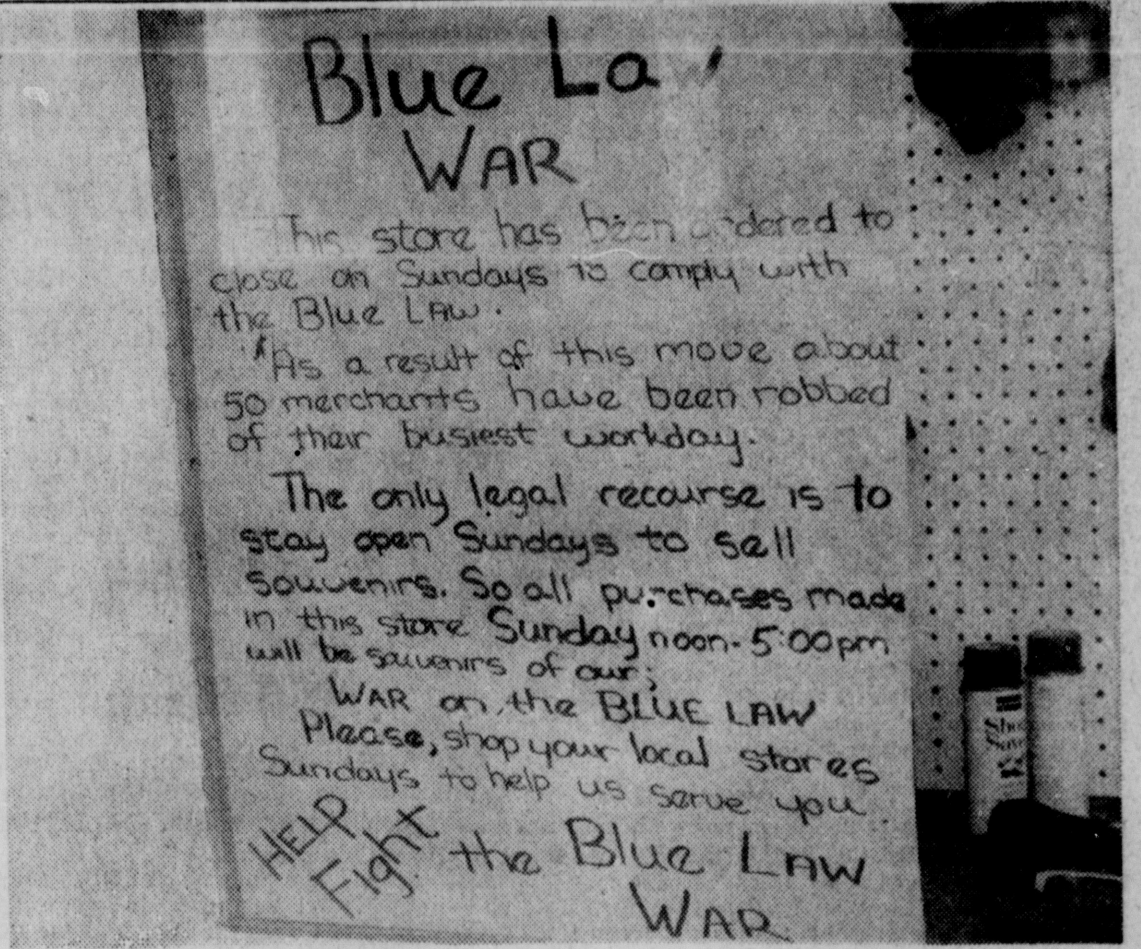

Hutt said that if he is closed down on Sundays, he is considering devoting the day to going around the entire county and seeing to it that no stores remain open.

Vogt said that if he receives a complaint about a store in another township, the same action will be taken as that in Woodstock.

Asked why the law has not been enforced throughout the county, Vogt explained that there is not enough manpower to serve and check for violations. "We don't enforce it unless we get a complaint," he said.

Mitchell Rapoport, president of the New Woodstock Merchants Association, told The Freeman Wednesday that he doesn't know what action the organization will take. He predicted that as many as 50 per cent of the Woodstock stores may be forced to close for good and move elsewhere.

"We don't want to go against the D.A.'s wishes," Rapoport said. "We're just asking if it's fair that we have to suffer when other businesses statewide are getting away with it."

'To Complete Text of Agreement'

Kissinger, Tho Talks Resume Tuesday

Warm Thoughts for a January Day

John, Sandy and Cathy Wojciechowski turn to clean the pool as soaring unseasonable temperatures bring springtime thoughts to the Mid-Hudson Valley. Wednesday's mercury soared to an official high of 57 degrees in the city, breaking the previous record for Jan. 17, a 51 degree reading in 1949. More of the same was expected today and Friday. (Freeman photo by Haines)

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — The Florida White House and Hanoi jointly announced today that top-level Paris peace talks will be resumed Tuesday.

"For the purpose of completing the text of an agreement," Hanoi said, "the United States and North Vietnam, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

"Dr. Henry Kissinger will resume private negotiations with special adviser Le Duc Tho and Minister Xuan Thuy on Jan. 23, 1973 for the purpose of completing the text of an agreement."

Ziegler indicated Kissinger would leave Washington Monday for Paris and said he could not predict how long the envoy might remain.

Related Vietnam stories on page 30.

Asked if this would be the final meeting of Kissinger and Tho, Ziegler said, "the announcement will have to speak for itself."

Ziegler said the United States would have no comment on the negotiations "until a final agreement is reached."

"At another point, he said: 'We are interested in ending this war as soon as possible and ending it through negotiations.'"

Asked if a cease-fire might take effect in Indochina prior to completion of the promised peace agreement, Ziegler said

"there has been an awful lot of speculation along that line," but added he was not prepared to "address that speculation" whether it is right or wrong.

Ziegler also announced that Army Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., now in Bangkok as part of a Southeast Asia tour to discuss the Paris talks, would return to Saigon Saturday and meet again with President Nguyen Van Thieu. He said he did not know whether Haig would return to Washington prior to Kissinger's departure.

Before returning to Washington, Haig was visiting Phnom Penh, Vientiane and Bangkok to brief the governments of Cambodia, Laos and Thailand on the present status of the peace negotiations.

Thieu was reported to still have reservations about the protocols or technical instruments to bring the peace agreement into being, and some political matters also appeared still unresolved. Despite this, Thieu's foreign minister, Tran Van Lam said in an interview published Wednesday that "peace is very near."

Lam's comment seemed to indicate that the remaining issues could be resolved quickly. From Saigon, Haig flew first to Phnom Penh and met with President Lon Nol.

In Bangkok, U.S. Ambassador Leonard Unger told the American Chamber of Commerce that U.S. military strength in Thailand will be scaled down when the Vietnam War ends, but sufficient strength will be maintained to prevent violations of the peace agreement. There are now 49,000 American troops stationed in Thailand, carrying on the air war in Vietnam.

The draft agreement calls for a withdrawal of all American forces from Vietnam within 60 days of signing, but there is no prohibition against U. S. forces in Thailand or against U. S. naval forces in the area.

In Paris, the semi-public Vietnam peace conference, deadlocked for four years while parallel secret negotiations made headway, was indefinitely suspended today by agreement of the four delegations.

Nixon Lifts Fuel Oil Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Acting to alleviate a winter fuel shortage, the Nixon administration has ended import limits on heating oil and boosted total oil-import quotas east of the Rocky Mountains by more than half.

George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, Wednesday announced the decision to suspend controls on imports of widely used No. 2 heating oil through the first four months of this year, but said fuel-oil supplies will remain tight all winter.

Oil industry sources said, however, the move should head off any serious shortage through the rest of the cold season.

(The nationwide fuel oil shortage has had an effect on the Ulster County area, as well, with at least one local distributor rationing oil supplies to customers. A spokesman for Leon Wilber and Son, Inc. of Kingston said today, however, that it was still undecided whether the rationing would cease now that oil import quotas have been suspended.

"It looks like it will still be tight for the rest of the season," the spokesman said. Other local distributors were not forced to adopt measures as drastic as fuel rationing, although most agreed Wednesday that the oil supply situation was, nevertheless, "grim."

Most local dealers emphasized that customers would not run dry this season, despite the nationwide shortage. Arthur Motzkin, president of Kingston Oil Supply Corporation, told The Freeman that there is still a large potential of home heating oil not tapped by major fuel companies because of the earlier ceiling on prices.)

Lincoln also said the administration has increased the East Coast total import quota for 1973 by some 915,000 barrels a day, raising the 1972 quota of 1,785,000 barrels a day by about 51 per cent.

The West Coast import quota for crude oil was boosted from the 1972 level of 717,000 barrels per day to 800,000 a day for 1973.

Lincoln said the moves might encourage importers who were saving their allocations to release them now.

Under the present system, importers are allocated shares of the total quota by a formula based mainly on their past imports.

Lincoln also said the administration is considering other major changes in the oil-import system, including the possible auctioning off of additional quotas beginning in 1974.

In predicting the continued shortage, Lincoln said domestic refineries started hiking their production too late. He also cited bottlenecks in the distribution system, environmental restraints and a lack of natural gas as contributing to the overall shortage.

Lincoln said refineries raised fuel-oil output by 5 per cent in the last two months, after the administration pointed to serious shortages in an 11-state region from Colorado to Ohio only.

hit by a cold wave. Also contributing to the shortage, Lincoln said, was reaction to the government's freezing gasoline prices in 1971 at high levels and fuel-oil prices at low levels. As a result, he said, "we've been on a gasoline (production) binge all summer" while fuel-oil production lagged.

At his news conference Wednesday, Lincoln hinted that refineries might have more incentive to produce a greater supply of No. 2 heating oil if prices were allowed to rise.

Under President Nixon's Phase 3 economic program, oil companies do not now need prior approval to increase the price of their product. Phase 3 also allows oil companies to pass on costs to the consumer on a profit margin standard region from Colorado to Ohio only.

Rondout Detour 'On Schedule'

KINGSTON Officials of the State Department of Transportation in Poughkeepsie said today that construction work on detour routes in preparation for the Rondout Creek Bridge closing this summer is on schedule and will be completed "by approximately June 1."

Work on the detour routes began last September when Callanan Industries of Eddyville was awarded the contract on its low bid of $367,490. Bid openings for the actual bridgework and some

"minor detour work" are set for Feb. 8.

Meanwhile, work on the first contract is continuing "on schedule" according to DOT officials. Basically, the contract calls for the widening of Salem Street to a width of 20 feet from its junction with Broadway in Port Jervis to its junction with Route 213 in Eddyville; the "improvement" of two curves (on Salem Street) one "just west" of the Penn Central Railroad Crossing, the other in the vicinity of Schultz Lane. This spring, the road will be resurfaced along that three-mile section. There will also be some "improvement" of the shoulders of the road "where possible," and some "minor drainage work," with the installation of a "few culverts."

The second contract will also include some work on the detour route, although of a "minor" nature. Route 213 from its junction with Salem Street to Kingston will neither be widened or resurfaced although some work may be done on the shoulders, where necessary. According to a DOT spokesman, there will be some "minor scaling" of rock on the south entrance to the bridge on Route 213.

Three traffic lights will be installed in the city under the second phase of the contract: a combined light at Wilbur Avenue, Dunn and Abel Streets, one at Wilbur Avenue and West O'Reilly Street and one at Greenkill Avenue and Wilbur Avenue.

The bridge, according to Raymond T. Schuler, commissioner of transportation, will be closed to both vehicular and pedestrian traffic for a period of up to but not to exceed four months. It is expected that the bridge will be reopened in the latter part of October.

Schuler has previously termed this "an extremely short period for work of this kind." He explained it has been made possible because a precast concrete deck will be installed instead of the more conventional cast-in-place deck.

A nine-month closing would have been required with the conventional system, it was explained.

The new roadway, to be finished with an asphalt surface over the precast concrete, will be a foot wider than at present. The proposed contract also calls for repairs or replacement of all deteriorated steel and concrete, improvement of bridge lighting and related measures.

Manslaughter Reversal

KINGSTON A new trial has been ordered for Rodney Arnold of Prison, he will be moved to Ulster County Jail and will remain under grand jury indictment for murder.

District Attorney Francis J. Vogt who prosecuted the case, said he will consider either moving for immediate retrial or take the case to the Court of Appeals. He has 30 days after the court order incorporating the decision is served upon him to decide.

Arnold's reversal was won by Attorney Francis T. Murray of 23 Crown Street, Kingston, who was assigned by the court to make the appeal on behalf of the defendant. Francis Murray of the five-Martucci of Kingston where Mrs. Blaustein's station man court decision by telegram, represented Arnold in the trial.

Presently lodged in Walkkill action. According to The Appellate Division decision, Mrs. Blaustein was found slumped over the steering wheel of her station wagon, apparently injured. At the scene she was questioned by John Bennett, a truck driver who stopped to offer his assistance. Other help was summoned and Mrs. Blaustein was driven to Ellenville Community Hospital where she was pronounced dead on arrival. Her death was caused by gunshot wounds.

About one hour later, Arnold was found by the State Police lying on a lawn about three miles away from the place where Mrs. Blaustein's station wagon had stopped. He had a severe gun shot wound to the head and was taken to Kingston Hospital. Later State Police found the revolver near the place where Arnold was discovered wounded. The revolver had apparently been used to fire shots that caused the wounds to Mrs. Blaustein and Arnold.

The Appellate Division agreed with Arnold's attorney that the admissibility of the statement by Mrs. Blaustein identifying her "boy friend" as her assailant was hearsay and constitutes "prejudicial error." The court ruled that there was no foundation that would qualify the statement as a dying declaration or as a spontaneous statement.

Assemblyman Bell Pre-Files Campaign Spending Legislation

By LYNN MULVANEY

ALBANY — "Public office will become a plaything of the rich if effective controls are not enacted and enforced," Assemblyman H. Clark Bell said this week in Albany as he pre-filed legislation not only to put a curb on campaign spending but to invoke penalties for offenders.

Bell's measure, which he introduced in 1971 and which failed to get out of committee, will come once again before the 1973 session. Interest in reform in campaign spending has been evident in New York State and Washington in the past two years with Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo asking for a study of campaign spending and U. S. Sen. James L. Buckley introducing legislation to amend the election law to state that no part of the dues, assessments or other money collected by any organization from any persons as a condition of employment shall be made available to or for the benefit of any candidate or political committee. That measure was tabled 56-38.

If a candidate exceeds the limitations specified in the Bell proposal and is elected, the results of the election can be set aside, the candidate disqualified, a new election ordered and the offending candidate will be ineligible to run for any public or party office for a period of two years.

"One wonders what chance Abe Lincoln would have had in today's 'big money' politics. Money is no longer a key ingredient for national elections; it is also becoming very important in local elections," Bell said.

Highlights of the Bell bill include the following:

● In primaries, each candidate would be limited to spending 15 cents per enrolled voter and in general or special elections the same limit of 15 cents per registered voter for the constituency involved.

Bell said that the 15 cent figure may be high or low but it certainly can be changed from time to time to reflect inflation and other considerations. A 15 cent limit per voter in general elections would mean that with today's estimated general registration figures, a limit of about $10,000 for an Assembly district, $25,000 for a Senatorial district, $75,000 for a Congressional district campaign and about $1,250,000 for a campaign for a statewide office such as governor.

● Anyone who violates the legal limit would be ineligible to run for or hold public office for a period of two years.

● The limit would apply to all expenditures of money, goods, or other items or efforts of value made in behalf of the candidate.

● No committee, combination of committees, or other entity, may work on behalf of a candidate without written prior authorization from the candidate and the written authorization must be filed with the committee's report along with a statement of expenditures.

● The Supreme Court would be given jurisdiction in a special proceeding to enforce the law and it would use its general equities powers to insure compliance. All committees, persons and entities which in any way aid a candidate would be made proceeding so that the court could use its injunctive and contempt powers.

"What we really need," Bell said, "is a comprehensive statute which balances and blends the various elements of today's modern campaigning. Until such a statute can be devised we must have some effective legislation to control campaign spending. The trend toward government by only the wealthy must be reversed. No candidate should have the door to elective office barred to him by the dollar sign," Bell concluded.

Dutchess... Another Shopping Center

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — What? Another shopping center proposed for Northern Dutchess County?

Yes. The Pitcher properties, located at the southeast corner of the intersection of the Kingston-Rhinebeck Bridge approach and Route 9G, has been proposed by Kenneth and Donald Pitcher as the site for their contemplated shopping center.

For those who frequent the area, it is the bulldozed section immediately to the south of the Forest Park housing development complex.

What makes it more crucial in the development of the Town of Rhinebeck is that this is the largest single portion of the town designated "highway business" in the zoning law, and the only area remaining undeveloped in that capacity.

It was partially designated for business because of the State Department of Transportation's future plan to reconstruct Route 199 to cut straight through to the south of Forest Park and connect with the same route further to the east, instead of swinging north on Route 9G and then east through the Village of Red Hook.

The Pitcher property is very near the Town of Red Hook line, and other nearby properties owned by the Pitchers south on 9G on the east side have already been developed for highway business with Dickens Lawn and Power Equipment and Rhinebeck Plumbing and Heating establishing new offices there within the past year.

Somewhat ironically, the third highway business area designated in the Town of Rhinebeck was specially

Cuneo's... Still Open

KINGSTON — Demolition crews will complete their work at 614-616 Broadway sometime next week. The Freeman learned today, and will then head up the street to the former Beck's Building. The demolition will clear the way for a new city parking lot in that area. Cuneo's restaurant at 618 Broadway, is not being demolished and has been and will remain open for "business as usual."

The building at 614-616 Broadway, according to the owners of Cuneo's is known as the Dondero Building and is separate from the building housing the proposed for the shopping center is comprised of approximately 40 acres. The preliminary plans as submitted to the Rhinebeck Zoning Enforcement Officer, James Loftus, include planned development of a "completely integrated shopping center with the plans providing for the usual services of a large food supermarket, discount store, banking services, and specialty stores usually found in similar surroundings."

The Pitcher brothers also own approximately 75 acres fronting on the west side of Route 9G, and they have stated that final utilization plans have not been determined at this time.

A request for a shopping center, dubbed Dutchess Fair Shopping Center, just south of the Village of Red Hook on Route 9 was denied last month by that town's Planning Board with the agreement of the Dutchess County Department of Planning.

The county has taken the stance of late that core areas of villages and cities should be promulgated for redevelopment, rather than adopting the "spread city" concept inherent in the idea of shopping centers.

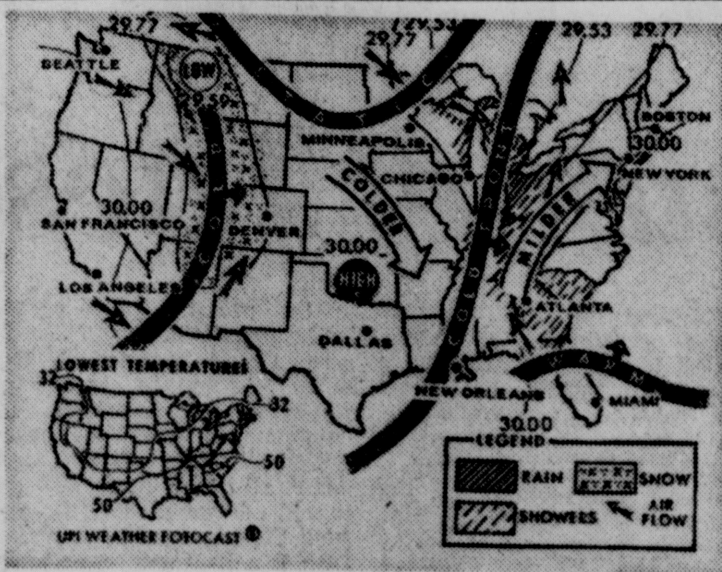

Usual channels, including public hearings, must be followed in the Pitcher brothers request after it is reviewed by the Rhinebeck Town Planning Board.

Search Off

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. (UPI) — The search for a student pilot, believed down in a wide area between Long Island and Dutchess County, was called off Wednesday night.

The Civil Air Patrol and state police had searched several days for William Blaes, 62, of Massapequa, who had left an airport at Amityville, headed for the Dutchess County Airport here Sunday.

The search had been concentrated south of Dutchess County and had included parts of Western Connecticut, but no trace was found of the pilot or his Cessna 150 single-engine craft.

Dust Pollution

Editor, The Freeman:

I was amazed at the amount of stone dust on the ice of the Esopus Creek from Mt. Marion to Saugerties on Saturday morning, January 13th, when I went down to ice skate. This is not the first time I observed the dust on the ice, though this time it was heavier. Without the dust the ice is shiny and beautiful, that day it was very dull looking. I anticipated the day when the conditions would be right to skate from Mt. Marion to Saugerties, and the weather was just right to freeze the ice to the right thickness. In the past it has been such fun gliding over the ice with no space limitations.

It took all the anticipated joy out of the event when I saw the film of dust (in some places blown into ridges). I knew the skating would not be half so good, but I wanted to see how far the dust did travel from the Hudson Valley Light Weight Aggregate Co. in Mt. Marion, so I skated over the abrasive surface, which slows one down and went past Oakledge Park, and the dust was plainly visible all the way to that point and beyond that. I spoke to two men who were walking over the ice and they were fully aware of the source of the dust, and said it was just as bad in the summer time, showing up in the house even more with windows open. They had started petitions going several times, but as far as they knew, nothing had come of it. There are many homes on the Upper Esopus Creek Road facing the creek, and I was quite surprised that the weight of their protests had brought no results.

We don't need any new laws, we only need courageous law enforcement by those in authority. Our once beautiful Esopus Creek is a mess, and nothing that I know of is being done about it.

I once heard the expression "that the people are a sleeping giant" but was just wondering when we might wake up!

Sincerely,
IRMA C. SAGAZIE

Preventive care

Editor, The Freeman:

Five years ago, Congress enacted legislation to include podiatry in the Medicare Program; over the years this has meant enormous benefits for millions of aged who have been able to seek professional attention for those foot conditions covered by the program.

The Podiatry Society of the State of New York believes, however, that the current session of Congress should pass legislation to expand Medicare coverage to include preventive care as well. Coverage for this type of care would not only save money; it would contribute immeasurably to improved health among the nation's growing aged population.

For example, well over 50 per cent of those qualified for Medicare — some five million people — are susceptible to foot problems.

If these people saw a foot specialist three times a year, such visits would prevent diseases such as foot ulcers which take from three to twelve months to heal and which require two to three visits each week to a podiatrist. These visits are now paid by Medicare, at an estimated cost in excess of $150 million a year.

The cost of preventive care, however, would be far less than $150 million. Therefore, it makes sense from a health as well as economic standpoint, to provide for Medicare coverage for preventive care.

Editor, The Freeman:

I want to thank you, the editor, very much for having my letter published in the Kingston newspaper and I want to thank all the wonderful people from Kingston and the surrounding area for sending me get well cards, letters and Christmas cards. I received a good bit of mail and it sure made me, a disabled veteran, very happy. I am the man that had four operations before I had my left leg amputated and I had seven more operations after I had my left leg amputated. I am a veteran of World War II. I fought in the Battle of the Bulge and I was wounded three times in action. Since I am still disabled, I have a lot of time to read. Please keep the mail coming. My birthday is January 18. It would make me very happy to receive some birthday cards.

Critical Reader

Editor, The Freeman:

I have just read the front page article, "Tale of the Wayward Buses." I object to the amused tone of the article and the humorous manner in which it was written. Granted, it makes good reading (although I question whether it warranted front-page coverage), and the incident may seem amusing to many of your readers. To me, however, it's a red-flag warning that this boy, far from being a "star" of a dramatic "caper", is headed for more serious trouble unless he receives the attention and kind of help he needs. Let's be concerned rather than amused!

Multi-Presidency

Editor, The Freeman:

Now that it's getting close to inauguration, one can't but think of the good poor people left holding the bag without true representation. When we think of the presidency with all honesty, we can easily see the need for more than one president; in fact more than two to insure the better consideration of the will and the needs of the better people. Will we ever wake up to the needs of the present age or still live partly with the mistakes of the dim past?

Revenue Review Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sweeping review of the Internal Revenue Code, leading to a tax-reform bill for House consideration this summer, is planned by Chairman Wilbur D. Mills of the House Ways and Means Committee.

But Mills cautioned, in an interview, against expecting either a substantial increase in government revenues or a general lowering of taxes to result from the reforms.

"I don't think you increase revenues by tax reform," the Arkansas Democrat said. "You usually find that a gain here is offset by a loss there." And, he added, in its present fiscal situation the country cannot afford an over-all tax cut of any size.

Mills said he expects to begin hearings by late January or early February, depending on how quickly the new House completes its organization, and to continue about six weeks.

He said the review of tax laws will have no particular targets, but in discussing possibilities he indicated some areas that might get special attention:

—Reform of estate and gift taxes, with emphasis on discouraging such devices as trusts which relieve one generation of tax liabilities.

—Capital gains. Mills has suggested several times that the present six-month period—for holding an asset before its sale results in low-taxes capital gains—may be too short.

—The minimum tax, a provision in the 1969 tax act intended to ensure that wealthy persons taking advantage of special tax preferences would pay some tax in any case. Mills said the tax has not produced nearly as much revenue as had been anticipated, suggesting that its terms may be too loose.

—Municipal bonds. He said he still favors a provision, lost in the development of the earlier act, by which local governments would have the option of taking a government subsidy on interest rates rather than issuing bonds whose yield is tax-free.

He said local officials are coming to realize that such an arrangement would broaden the market for their securities beyond the institutions and wealthy individuals who now buy municipal bonds because of the tax advantages.

Mills indicated he is not optimistic about chances for some of the changes often advocated by tax reformers, such as repealing special depreciation rules enacted in 1971, or subjecting the income of U.S.-owned foreign corporations to current tax.

Mills said he does not intend to re-introduce the bill he offered last year that would have repealed more than 50 tax preferences in present law unless Congress voted to retain them.

Heart Charter Lists Goal

POUGHKEEPSIE The Heart Chapter of Dutchess County, Inc., has announced its largest goal ever for 1973 — $102,000, according to chairman Ernest Stoenner.

Last year's campaign saw volunteers turn in more than the goal of $96,000.

Money raised during the February drive will be used in research, education, and the many local endeavors of the Heart Chapter.

It is estimated that one of every eight Americans is afflicted with heart and blood vessel disease.

Heart Month, February, is designated by an Act of Congress and observed nationally. The drive will culminate in a door-to-door campaign Sunday, Feb. 11.

This year's theme is "Beat the Big One — Heart Attack," the nation's number one killer.

PSC Hearings Open Amid Dissent

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Listening to a chorus of dissent from consumer groups, businessmen and ordinary telephone customers, the state Public Service Commission (PSC) has opened a series of hearings on proposed across-the-board rate increases for the New York Telephone Co.

The session here Wednesday, attended by about 100 persons, was the first of several that will be conducted across the state through next month.

New York Telephone is asking for PSC authorization to raise its flat rate by 16 per cent, increase the coin-telphone charge from 10 cents to 20 cents and set up a "timing" system for message-unit subscribers. The timing method would charge one message unit for each five minutes of a call, replacing the present arrangement of one message unit for an entire conversation.

The PSC denied a company request earlier this month for temporary rate increases that would have generated $217 million in new revenue. The commission ruled that the company had not shown the financial urgency that must be demonstrated for approval of temporary rates.

The current request for a permanent rate hike would produce $306 million in revenue for the company.

A New York Telephone representative testified Wednesday that the new money would "provide" the bare minimum needed to continue to meet the communications needs of our customers.

In addition to increased costs of labor, materials and taxes, the company cited a need to provide an adequate profit to attract new investors and accumulate the capital required for additional equipment and new physical plants.

"The company is not entitled to a cent of the money requested," one witness countered. "The company has no right to force its responsibility to its shareholders on its rate-payers."

The witness, Florence Rice of the Harlem Consumer Education Council, concluded that it might be time for the government to take over telephone services.

"It may be that private enterprise has reached its nadir in providing phone service," she said.

Other witnesses testified about their individual complaints against the telephone company, and some expressed skepticism about the PSC's responsiveness to their viewpoint.

"It's a giant exercise in futility," said Harold B. Gordon of Troy. "The rate increases are granted, in spite of the public's opinion."

One 74-year-old widow from nearby Cohoes railed against the telephone company for about one-half hour, cataloging her gripes—wrong numbers from information operators, not getting a dial tone when she was trying to call her physician, being referred from one office to another and back again when she complained about defective service.

"What the hell's going on here? Are they trying to make a jackass out of an old lady?" Mrs. Ruth Donovan demanded. "We got better service years ago when we paid only $3 a month."

Adirondack Agency . . . 'Land Grab'

INDIAN LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — "This is the biggest government-financed land grab since the Cherokees were asked to walk across the mountains," declared one angry witness Tuesday night at a hearing held by the Adirondack Park Agency.

The speaker, John Hosley of Long Lake, was wearing an Indian-style headdress to emphasize his point.

His point was one that has been made over and over again as the agency holds public hearings into its sweeping plan to control future development in the Adirondacks.

Hundreds of citizens appearing at the hearings have been demanding either changes in the plan or a one-year delay in its implementation.

Some of the meetings have been stormy, with speakers from conservationist groups which support the plan being shouted down by the plan's opponents.

The agency's hearings Wednesday afternoon and night in this Hamilton County community were comparatively calm, but the citizen criticism of the agency's plan was as forceful as ever.

The plan would set up usage categories for the 3.7 million acres of private land in the park, most of which have never been subject to any zoning ordinances.

Over half of the private lands would be placed in a classification allowing no more than ten dwellings every square mile. Local governments would be given a role in administering the plan, but the basic policy decisions would be made by the Adirondack Park Agency, an arm of state government.

Richard Perdu of Indian Lake declared Wednesday that the plan would cause "serious, major, sometimes catastrophic loss of property values" if approved by the legislature.

He hopes that the plan would allow enough economic growth to revive the Adirondack economy, the state's poorest.

The fact that the plan provides for most of the important zoning powers to remain in state hands also provoked considerable criticism. Don Ledley of Speculator, a member of the planning board in the Town of Lake Pleasant, declared that the master plan "usurps a lot of the powers of the localities."

Perdu suggested that the agency include a majority of members who live within the Adirondack Park Agency

Chairman Richard Lawrence noted that it already does, by legislative mandate.

Two men who have long been active in conservationist groups in the Adirondacks appeared to argue for stronger controls than provided under the plan.

One, William Verner of Long Lake, called for more restrictive classification of the lands in what he called the "critical central portion of the Adirondacks." And Phil Terry of Long Lake called for a complete ban on development in some parts of the region.

Philip Fitzsimmons of Minerva said the agency's plan is essential because most local governments have refused to control development. "Our town, without any zoning ordinances, has allowed our home to be surrounded by two unsightly, horrible junkyards," he declared.

Hosley, who took off his Indian headdress shortly after taking the podium, won the loudest applause with the most impassioned speech of the evening. He demanded that more consideration be given to "the individual that owns this property that is being discussed so freely." He warned against a state takeover of the region and declared that "I'd like to be notified where the reservation is located where you and I are going to be put."

The agency has heard from a few hundred of the park's 115,000 residents during its hearings, and agency members said Wednesday that the reaction to their plan has been overwhelmingly critical.

State Legislature Presented Amendments

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The legislature was presented today with three constitutional amendments that Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says would relieve court congestion and permit speedy trials.

One amendment which was given first approval by the legislature last year, would permit criminal defendants to waive indictment by a grand jury.

The defendant choosing to skip the indictment procedure would sign the waiver forms in open court in the presence of his lawyer. The amendment would apply to all defendants charged by police with a felony, except one punishable by death or life imprisonment.

Federal courts allow a defendant to waive indictment by grand jury. The state Constitution, however, requires an indictment for the prosecution of felonies.

would report for work at 12:01 a.m. EST Friday.

The first trains will move out 24 hours later and full service was expected to be restored by Monday, Brennan said.

The 352-mile-long LIRR carries 90,000 regular commuters and 90,000 other one-way riders each day between the towns and villages of Nassau and Suffolk Counties on Long Island and its terminals in midtown Manhattan and downtown Brooklyn.

LIRR to Roll Saturday

NEW YORK (UPI) — The blue and silver trains of the Long Island Rail Road, the "Route of the Dashing Commuter," will roll again Saturday for the first time since a strike by non-operating employees began seven weeks ago.

Peter J. Brennan, President Nixon's secretary of labor designate, announced Wednesday that he had worked out a 90-day "truce" in the deadlocked Long Island Rail Road strike during which a three-member panel will probe the issues in the walkout.

For the line's 180,000 daily riders, it will mean the first train service between New York and its Long Island suburbs since the 5,000 workers walked out Nov. 30 in a dispute over wages and productivity. Formal bargaining was suspended last week. Both sides have been far apart on the main issue of wages in which the union has demanded a 26 per cent increase while management has offered 12 per cent over a two-year period.

"I grew up with most of these people," Brennan, president of the New York City Building and Construction Trades Council, told a crowded Washington news conference. "I know most of the labor leaders personally. I know some of the company representatives personally."

"I don't have a magic wand, so I can't wave a settlement in front of you," Brennan said. "But I have talked with the people involved and I think we have made real progress."

He said that the striking non-operating employees, and the 1,500 operating personnel who have respected the picket lines,

Mrs. Nixon Will Pinch-Hit

Agnew Reception Starts the Inaugural Weekend

WASHINGTON (AP) — A reception for Vice President and Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew this evening followed by a "salute to the states" signal the official start of President Nixon's second-term inauguration festivities.

Nixon's wife, Pat, is scheduled to pinch-hit for him at the two receptions, with the President returning from Florida sometime before he takes the oath of office Saturday at noon in front of the Capitol.

While Nixon remained at his seaside resort in Key Biscayne studying the latest developments in the Paris peace talks, backers and foes of his war policies laid plans to parade in force Saturday, Inauguration Day.

The inaugural committee estimated that 50,000 out-of-town ers will come to the week-end's events, most of them for the swearing-in and inaugural parade.

More than 180 of the estimated 300 surviving Medal of Honor recipients from as far back as World War I will be honored at the inauguration, beginning with a luncheon today and at a banquet and the inaugural balls, Saturday. The banquet will be hosted by one of Nixon's biggest donors, W. Clement Stone, and emceed by Bob Hope.

Meanwhile, embittered veterans from the war in Vietnam are arriving to participate in a protest march from the Washington Monument to the Lincoln Memorial at the same time the President parades from the Capitol to the White House reviewing stand. Their planned routes do not cross.

Demonstration leaders predicted tens of thousands of anti-war sympathizers would come despite reports that a cease-fire is imminent and that Nixon may have an announcement about Vietnam as part of his inauguration address.

Tonight, Mrs. Nixon is expected to stay briefly at the Agnews' reception at the Smithsonian Museum of History and Technology, then appear at the salute to the states and their governors.

The salute will take place in the newest and grandest of the federal buildings, the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

People attending inaugural events are given a 33-page booklet containing advice on what to wear to Agnew's reception and the balls to how to find a free bus shuttling back and forth between inaugural events and 12 hotels.

More than 40 information booths are located at hotels, airports and the train station with 500 volunteers prepared to assist visitors.

District police were reported losing their battle against souvenir hunters who already have confiscated more than half the distinctive signs banning parking for the parade.

Bizarre Extortion Plot Ends in Three Murders

GRANDIN, Mo. (AP) — "The dynamite is under my shirt. They've got my wife and daughter. Don't make any telephone calls, you might trigger this dynamite," the small town banker told his employees.

A bizarre extortion plot ended when police officers found the body of the 43-year-old banker, his wife and a daughter bound to small trees near an abandoned farm five miles west of Grandin.

Each was in a kneeling position and each had been shot once through the head, Ripley

County Sheriff Lewis Dawes said.

The slayings of Robert J. Kitterman, his 13-year-old wife, Bertha, and 17-year-old Roberta Kitterman touched off a massive manhunt around this once-thriving lumber town 120 miles south of St. Louis. The FBI also entered the case because bank extortion was involved.

Kitterman, president of the Bank of Grandin, left with $9,811 after he entered the bank following the lunch hour on Wednesday and told employees that extortionists had attached dynamite to his body.

Officers alerted by bank employees said Kitterman drove west on Missouri 60. The Missouri Highway Patrol was notified, but it could not intercept the banker.

Dawes and two deputies later found the bodies of the Kittermans. He said there was no dynamite on the bankers' body, nor was the money found.

Kitterman's auto and a car belonging to Roberta were both found at the death scene, and officers said a .32 caliber slug thought to have passed through the girl's body was located in a thicket near the trussed victims.

Although authorities theorized that the extortion plot began with the kidnaping of the three at the Kitterman home after Roberta finished her morning high school classes, the Highway Patrol said the house was locked and appeared to be in order, with no disarray.

Mrs. Kitterman was assistant cashier at the family-owned bank. Roberta, a high school senior, worked as a clerk at the bank in the afternoons.

The Kittermans had two other daughters, Kathy, 15, and Patricia, 14. They were attending Ellsinore High School at the time of the slayings. The three sisters were honor students.

Kitterman, the son of a saw-mill operator, started as an assistant cashier at the bank and rose to become president.

Neighbors said the Kittermans, while devoting much time to fishing and a farm they owned, "were deeply interested in their daughters."

New Food Labels Ordered by FDA

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In what it called the most significant change in food label rules in 77 years, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) today ordered the makers of everything from milk to bread to begin listing on their labels such things as calories, fats, carbohydrates and the breakdown of vitamins in each serving.

Consumers could begin seeing the new labels as early as this summer, although the full impact of the change is still two years away. It will affect any food product "fortified" with a nutrient, or making claims in its label or advertising about protein, fat, calories, dieting, vitamins or the like.

The FDA could not immediately estimate what percentage of the nation's food supply would be covered. But it appeared a wide range of products would be included. Such things as fresh meat and raw vegetables would not be affected — unless advertising claims about their nutritive value are made.

It could cover, for instance, enriched flour and bread, frozen orange juice, diet soft drinks (because they make caloric claims), breakfast cereals, diet foods, fruit juices and maybe even candy bars (since some claim to give "quick energy.")

"The actions we are announcing today will result in the most significant change in food labeling practices since food labeling began," said FDA Commissioner Charles C. Edwards. The government's involvement in food labeling dates from the Tea Importation Act of 1896 when stamps were required on tea packages for the first time.

"They (the regulations) mark the beginning of a new era in providing consumers with complete, concise and informative food labeling," Edwards added. "The regulations will put into practice virtually all of the labeling recommendations of the White House Conference on Food, Nutrition and Health...No action in FDA's history has had more broadly based input or been more carefully considered."

In all, the FDA announced 12 final or proposed rules. Some were technical changes but others extended to such products as multiple vitamins, dietary foods, spices and flavors, and provided a voluntary formula under which food labels can also carry a breakdown of polyunsaturated fatty acids, saturated fatty acids and other fatty acids for cholesterol-conscious shoppers.

The nutrition labeling order is technically voluntary. If a firm decides to stop adding nutrients to its product, or to stop advertising its caloric content for instance, it would not be covered. But competition was likely to prevent such changes.

The rules specify that the nutritional information must be placed immediately to the right of the main label, unless the configuration of the container forces it to be printed elsewhere. The FDA said it hoped to finalize the rules within six months, after which time the food manufacturers will have six more months to make appropriate changes in their labels. During 1974 the food industry may use up all of its old labels but any new one coming out that year will have to have to include the nutrition list. Beginning with 1975, all labels covered will have to conform.

Opportunities for Congress

The 93rd Congress, just convened in Washington, is confronted with many issues familiar from previous sessions that the overriding question may be whether Congress itself can surmount the hurdles of politics and its own ponderous machinery to fulfill its obligations.

Observers have catalogued no less than 116 noteworthy issues facing the new Congress. The major ones have not changed much since President Nixon first took office in 1969. Indeed, Congress is meeting this time under heavy pressure to prove, to its own satisfaction if not for the nation as a whole, that it can exercise the power accorded to it under the Constitution.

The unexpected turn in the Vietnam truce negotiations made it a certainty that anti-war voices in Congress would quickly seek to steer the new session toward a challenge of the President's powers as commander-in-chief.

While the war may provide the most emotional issue for a contest of power between Congress and the presidency, the more substantive one involves federal spending. Congressional hackles have been raised by Mr. Nixon's veto of appropriation bills and impounding of appropriated funds in his efforts to keep the federal budget within limits considered noninflationary.

Time and again the American people have sent their representatives to the House and Senate with a hope that a Congress more responsive to the public temper will emerge. The 93rd Congress is younger and a shade more liberal than the 92nd. In consequence, its seniority system and other traditions which often serve its own interests rather than those of the public are probably in for renewed attack.

Opportunities abound for the 93rd Congress to make history in a constructive sense. We can hope its energies will not be dissipated in tests of strength with the President but will be applied to marshalling its own innate powers to perform its legislative function with responsibility and efficiency.

Patient's Rights

The American Hospital Association has compiled a bill of rights for hospital patients. Though not law, the rights are expected to have a strong influence on those hospitals which presently do not live up to them. The committee that prepared them was chaired by Joseph V. Terenzio, president of the United Hospital Fund of New York. The list is substantial:

The right to considerate and respectful care.

The right to obtain from his physician complete current information concerning his diagnosis, treatment and prognosis in terms the patient can be reasonably expected to understand.

The right to receive from his physician information necessary to give informed consent prior to the start of any procedure and/or treatment.

The right to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law and to be informed of the medical consequences of his action.

The right to every consideration of his privacy concerning his own medical care program.

The right to expect that within its capacity a hospital must make reasonable response to the request of a patient for services.

The right to obtain information as to any relationship of his hospital to other health care and educational institutions insofar as his care is concerned.

The right to be advised if the hospital proposes to engage in or perform human experimentation affecting his care or treatment.

The right to expect reasonable continuity of care.

The right to examine and receive an explanation of his bill regardless of source of payment.

The right to know what hospital rules and regulations apply to his conduct as a patient.

The right to expect that all communications and records pertaining to his care should be treated as confidential.

The AHA has here set forth an essential set of rights, whose observance should make every difference in the comfort and good morale of the patient, and improve the goodwill and satisfaction of the hospital.

Howard Hughes and Nixon

Jack Anderson Says

WASHINGTON — Two federal agencies investigating the elusive billionaire Howard Hughes have discovered, to their discomfort, tracks leading right up to the White House steps.

The Internal Revenue Service has turned up evidence that $100,000 was siphoned from the Silver Slipper, a Hughes gambling emporium, for Richard Nixon's 1968 campaign. And the Securities and Exchange Commission has learned that the President's brother, Don Nixon, played a part in Hughes' maneuvers to take over the airline, Air West.

The story of the $100,000 contribution was first published in this space on August 6, 1971. We reported that the gambling money was delivered by Richard Danner, a Hughes exec, to Bebe Rebozo, a Nixon confidante.

Our information was based on access to Hughes' private papers. On March 14, 1968, Hughes scribbled confidential instructions to Robert Maheu, then his chief honcho: "I want you to go to see Nixon as my special confidential emissary. I feel there is a really valid possibility of a Republican victory this year." The phantom billionaire suggested that Nixon could win "under our sponsorship and supervision every inch of the way." We found no evidence, however, that Hughes sponsored the Nixon campaign beyond the $100,000 contribution.

Treasury agents came across the mysterious contribution as part of an investigation into Hughes' operations. They are looking into every financial deal and every expenditure that can be traced back to the billionaire.

Sources close to the investigation report that the Treasury men have questioned Danner, who now runs the Sands hotel-casino in Las Vegas for Hughes. Danner acknowledged delivering the $100,000 to Rebozo but claimed the money was intended for the GOP congressional campaign, say our sources. We also talked to Danner, but he refused all comment. Rebozo never takes our calls.

Don Nixon's Role

The Securities and Exchange Commission, meanwhile, is investigating reports that Hughes manipulated the stock of Air West to bring pressure on the directors to sell him the airline. Because the board was divided over whether to sell, it is alleged, Hughes persuaded some big stockholders to dump their stock, promising to make good their losses. This allegedly drove down the price of the stock, and the board in panic voted to sell.

SEC investigators learned that Maheu, in Hughes' behalf, made the first approach to Air West through Don Nixon. Maheu, summoned to Washington for secret questioning, acknowledged Nixon's role in the deal. He said that another Hughes executive, John Meier, had made the arrangements with Nixon, who had put Maheu in touch with a board member.

Maheu denied to the SEC, however, that the President's brother had been paid a finder's fee. Don Nixon's involvement with Hughes in the Air West deal could revive the old story about the $205,000 loan. Don received from the billionaire back in 1956. The loan was secured by a mortgage on a small Whittier, Calif., lot that no bank would have accepted as security for a loan of that size. The loan, so far as we can learn, was never repaid.

We reached Maheu, who had no comment, but couldn't reach Don Nixon.

It will be interesting to watch, meanwhile, whether the IRS and SEC will be willing to go ahead with investigations that could embarrass their boss in the White House.

Under the Dome

Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y., borrowed 25 pistols that had been seized from potential hijackers to show recently on a New York TV station to promote his anti-hijacking bill. On the return flight to Washington, he decided to check airport security for himself and stuffed the pistols in his hand luggage. He got all 25 pistols aboard. No questions asked. . . . Some Senators are jealous of Senate Majority Whip Bob Byrd, D-W. Va., who arranged a private briefing on Vietnam from William Sullivan, the Deputy Secretary of State, who participated in the Paris negotiations. The Senators assumed that Byrd, as one of the Senate leaders, needed the briefing for some deep foreign affairs debate. All he wanted, it turned out, was to make a good impression on a TV panel show.

When future historians examine Sen. Ted Kennedy's treasured papers, they'll find a touching, handwritten letter from Caroline Kennedy, the late President's daughter. In it, she asks her Uncle Ted, the last of the brothers, to be her godfather. . . . Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., was so afraid of airplanes that he refused to fly until he began serving on the Senate Space Committee. Then he decided that if astronauts could risk going to the moon, he could risk flying to Connecticut.

After the Truce

WASHINGTON — Rays of light showing that the Vietnam negotiations may be on the way to an agreement have again brought an atmosphere of optimism. This time there are signs that South Vietnam is ready to concur in the formula worked out by the United States and North Vietnam.

All the problems will not be solved by signing a single document. Everything will depend upon whether there is really a will to peace — a readiness to abandon destruction and begin reconstruction. For there is a job of rebuilding which not only will cost money but will necessitate a demilitarization on both sides so that the damage in North and South Vietnam may be repaired. The war has been going on for years now, and the devastation has been extensive.

If North and South Vietnam are in earnest in wishing to stop the fighting and turn their attention to the plight of the civilian population, a great deal of help will be needed. Homes and buildings, transportation lines and highways, port facilities and industries have been under longtime fire.

The United States will render financial aid, and other countries ought also to be thinking of the humanitarian relief that will be required. But the essential thing at the moment is to be sure that war has been truly given up by both sides and that the peace objective is genuine.

Our government has welcomed the influence that undoubtedly has been exerted in recent weeks by France, Great Britain, the Soviet Union and Red China in the effort to get a cease-fire and a settlement that will be satisfactory to North and South Vietnam.

One thing is plain — there is nothing to be gained by more fighting. The President has halted the bombing of North Vietnam as a signal that America is anxious to cooperate with all parties at the peace table.

The negotiations have been interrupted by recesses because South Vietnam has not felt safe with a proposed agreement that was as abstract as the one presented in October. But now, through the efforts of President Nixon and his representatives in Paris, it has been made clear that the autonomy of South Vietnam must be respected. This doesn't mean that the entire area which the Saigon government would like to have under its jurisdiction will be granted to it. As is the case with compromises, there will be situations which will have to be endured in the hope that over the years the differences can be removed by peaceful methods.

Unquestionably the settlement that is reached will have a big impact on the future of Asia. For a small nation which fought staunchly in defense of its independence was given the support of the United States on the battlefield. There are other countries in Asia which can feel more secure because of what America has done to protect one of them.

The termination of the Vietnam War will, of course, have a beneficial effect so far as the people of the United States are concerned. They have endured the strain of war for several years, and at one time more than a half million of our troops were in Vietnam. In recent weeks, there has been discussion in Congress about legislation to cut off funds in order to put an end to the war. But realism is beginning to be evident. Thus, Senator Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Democratic leader, said in a television broadcast on Sunday: "We can pass resolutions but we can't end the war; we shouldn't fool ourselves."

Mr. Mansfield conceded that the only weapon Congress has is "control of the purse," but he expressed the opinion that Congress wouldn't act to suspend funds and that, if it did, there would not be enough votes to override a presidential veto.

The fact remains, as the Montana Senator pointed out, that Congress is in a "disturbed, frustrated, uneasy" mood because of the continuance of the war.

Broadly speaking, Congress reflects discontent and often voices threats to intervene even though it knows that in the end presidential power to conduct foreign policy and carry out military operations arising therefrom is not subject to congressional interference. Fortunately, the friction in this matter between the two branches of government may be diminishing as the peace negotiations seem to be tending toward a settlement of the war in Vietnam.

Spicy Mayoral Menu in L.A.

LOS ANGELES — As happens every four years, politicians discover that they want to be mayor of this sprawling laboratory of American cities, these 464 square miles of plastic hopes and tinsel promises.

Trust the City of the Angels to produce the ultimate political innovation and the trust is fondly placed. Citizens here this April will participate in an almost totally franchised election. Three of the four major candidates will be packaged and handled by professional political consultants, those hired guns whose job is to burnish the plain qualities of a candidate into a gleaming zircon of public virtue.

For Angelinos, the experience may be little different from a drive along Sunset Boulevard to choose among the dietary delights of Kentucky Fried Chicken, Jack-in-the-Box, McDonald's or the All-American Hamburger.

The counters look clean, even if the service is surly and the fastest-moving item on the menu is law and order.

Two former police officers are in the race. One is Tom Bradley, a black city councilman who finished second in the mayoralty contest of 1969. Bradley pledges safety in the streets and an end to violence in city schools. His message is being prepared by David Garth of New York, who handled Mayor John V. Lindsay's re-election in 1969 and Sen. John V. Tunney's successful drive here in 1970.

Another candidate is a former police chief, Tom Reddin, who became a TV newscaster. His radio commercials also stress law and order and are prepared under the guidance of Joe Napolitano of Springfield, Mass., and Washington, D.C., the media Merlin on behalf of dozens of Democratic candidates throughout the past decade.

Jess Unruh, former Assembly Speaker and loser to Ronald Reagan in the gubernatorial election of 1970, has cast his lot with the consulting firm that scripted his defeat and Reagan's re-election, Spencer-Roberts. Stu Spencer and Bill Roberts offer more than media advice to a candidate and Unruh hopes that their fund-raising help and the good wishes of the state AFL-CIO will help him catch up with Reddin, Bradley and the man all three are trying to unseat, Mayor Sam Yorty.

Yorty, mayor since 1961, professes not to have professional public relations advice, but there's a question as to whether he needs any. Yorty is not exactly known for his bashfulness, whether in his role as world statesman, presidential aspirant or public philosopher.

"Season's Greeting from Mayor Sam Yorty" says the billboard at LaCienega

Boulevard. That gesture is just a hint of what awaits readers of the lavishly illustrated brochures, "The Yorty Years" or "Los Angeles Progresses Into the Seventies — A Continuation of the Yorty Years." Both booklets have several pictures of Sam Yorty.

Bill Boyarsky, the gently sardonic reporter covering the event for the Los Angeles Times, says that the mayoralty "right now is a barroom brawl. As soon as anyone lifts up his head, someone clobbers him."

"But as things go along," he says "real issues will develop. There don't seem to be any liberal or conservative stances any more, so the election may be interesting in what it says about national trends."

He's right, of course. It will be a superburger of political attitudes, with all the restless ingredients and condiments of America's future.

Most Americans Gone... But Vietnam Still Reeling

SAIGON (AP) — Girls in snack bars wear Rolling Stones T-shirts. A slender young man speaks English like a Pentagon memo. A middle-aged woman drives a bulldozer. A rice farmer watches cowboy movies on television.

All this and more since the Americans came.

It has been a blitz. One year there were 16,000 Americans. Four years later, there were more than half a million — 10 times as many as the French colonialists ever numbered.

The Americans paid a week's wages for a taxi ride, built an airport in two weeks and blasted an acre of jungle into compost on the chance of killing one Viet Cong. A Vietnamese could make a fortune just picking up after them.

"With the French, it was an infiltration system," says a Vietnamese professor, "with the Americans, a shock treatment."

Most of the Americans have gone, but South Vietnam still is reeling. A society that was once simple and orderly has grown new classes and new appetites.

The U.S. military needed people to wash clothes and lug boxes, so it hired them. U.S. agencies and contractors needed people to type, lay bricks, cook and fix air conditioners, so they trained them. The Americans needed Vietnamese experts for "nation building," so they sent them to school.

To keep inflation down and morale up, television sets, wrist watches and a million motorbikes were imported to sop up the incoming dollars.

English has supplanted French as the most popular foreign language in secondary schools. Employment of Vietnamese in the "U.S. sector" peaked at more than 160,000 in 1969. The average employee of the Americans earned two to four times the average income, creating pockets of affluence.

The Sears Roebuck "wish book" is popular reading in magazine stalls. Vietnamese officers' jeeps become family cars by night.

Civil servants rely on graft and military men on black marketeering to provide luxuries. No government program has succeeded in stopping them.

The war displaced an estimated seven million South Vietnamese at one time or another and started a great migration to the cities. Officials hoped that when peace came, the uprooted would drift back to the land, but they have changed their minds.

Nguyen Van Anh, vice minister of national planning and development, foresees an even greater influx into the cities as South Vietnam's million-man armed forces are demobilized.

It is not all bad, says Anh, because, "by bringing people into the army, we have given them a glimpse of the world outside their villages and we have opened their minds. Without the war, this process might have taken most of a century."

The war also has had an incalculable impact on the Vietnamese family. Children have grown up with fathers gone. Working wives frequently earn more than soldier husbands. Before the war, less than one-fourth of the university students were women, but now the percentage of coeds is well over one-third.

The draft and the high cost of setting up housekeeping caused registered marriages in Saigon to drop although the city was growing. The nuptial age rose by four years for both sexes, and the latest statistics show women initiated 960 of 1,140 divorces.

Hundreds of women have paid a month's salary or more for cosmetic surgeons to sew Caucasian-style folds into their eyelids or make their noses thinner and straighter.

Much recent Vietnamese architecture shows no relationship to tradition. New homes are ornamented with cement parabolas or triangles, and there is no trace of French or Chinese discipline.

"Experimentation?" a Vietnamese homeowner was asked. "Dislocation," he answered.

American music is popular but it is not theirs. A people with every reason to sing the blues can't get the hang of the sound made by black Americans.

"The most significant of our shortcomings," an American official wrote recently, "has been that we have failed to provide a dream... At no time have we attempted to tell the people what is at the end of the rainbow. What is the great aspiration which can make their suffering tolerable and their sacrifices worthwhile?"

Don't the Vietnamese already have a dream of their own? Yes, say many Vietnamese. When asked to describe it, they talk simply of prosperity and peace.

And it is peace that may put Vietnam's culture to its toughest test yet.

At this point, many Vietnamese seem not quite sure what they are and what they want to be.

"The war has opened the people's minds, but it has had bad effects on young people," says Vice Minister Anh of the national planning ministry.

"Live and love and die — that is their slogan. They don't want to think about building the future. They just want to live before they die."

Speed Kills...GIs Seminar

DORFWEIL, West Germany (UPI) — The professor shot some "speed" into a group of little white mice and dropped them into a glass jar.

The audience of uniformed U.S. Army soldiers watched the mice race around in circles until one mouse lay still.

The professor picked that one by the tip of its tail.

"You see," he said, "Speed kills."

Thus, on a secluded hilltop in the Taunus mountains, the Army has assembled more than 100 soldiers, ranging in rank from general to private, to watch and discuss ways of controlling drug abuse.

The seminar began Tuesday in a modern, concrete assembly hall overlooking this village near the city of Frankfurt. It aims to produce recommendations for the detection, prevention and control of drug and alcohol abuse within the Army's V Corps area.

The V Corps includes more than 100,000 soldiers and their dependents in the Frankfurt area alone.

"We have the commanders, the salty old sergeants, the idealist young lieutenants, the specialists who might be anti-establishment, the doctors and the parents," said Maj. Christopher Robbins, 32, the Corps alcohol and drug control officer. "We're trying to organize the American military community to fight drug abuse."

Dr. A. E. Wilder Smith, 15 per cent of the people who professor of pharmacology at the University of Illinois—he gave the white mice demonstration—said he spent three weeks talking to soldiers in West Germany last September and found drug use common. "Seventy per cent of the GIs I talked to said they had experience with drugs," Smith said, "and of that number, 20 per cent said they'd used drugs that same day."

Welfare Statistics Revealed to Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Welfare families are getting younger, better educated and smaller, but more of them are crowding into the cities with fewer job skills than their predecessors, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) has told Congress.

Characteristics working towards getting people off welfare roles are being canceled by the strikes against these recipients, said HEW's third annual report to Congress on services to welfare families.

Although the median age of welfare mothers—half above and half below—has dropped from 35 to 31 in the last decade, and a greater percentage of them are high school graduates, relatively more of these mothers are needed in the home to care for children and there are fewer with marketable job skills or for whom there are suitable jobs.

More welfare mothers under age 25 were on the rolls in 1971 than in 1969. Even though the family size was smaller, the percentage of children under age 6 increased slightly.

"Overall, it is clear that many AFDC (Aid to Families with Dependent Children) families still face formidable barriers to self-sufficiency," the report said.

About 75 per cent of welfare families now live in big cities. Among all the welfare families in 1971, the latest year reported, 48 per cent were white, 43 per cent black, 8 per cent were of other races and 1 per cent unknown.

Ridge Homes Holding Price

PHILADELPHIA, PA. in 17 eastern, mid-western and southern states.

Ridge Homes, the largest home manufacturer east of the Mississippi, today announced that it would maintain last fall's prices on its homes until Jan. 31, according to George Arold, A & R Builders, Route 9W, Saugerties, local Ridge dealer.

In Dutchess County, John Guercio, president of the G & C Corporation, Route 9G, Hyde Park, is the local Ridge dealer. To be eligible for the price break, he explained that home buyers must place a refundable $100 deposit by Jan. 31 and agree to accept delivery of the home by June 30.

He noted that recently granted price increases for labor and building materials will force Ridge to raise prices substantially after Jan. 31. The Ridge price increases have been filed with the federal Price Commission and are subject to commission approval.

Ridge Homes, a division of Evans Products Company, Portland, Ore., has manufactured more than 20,000 homes in the past 16 years. The company makes 3 models of ranch, split-level, bi-level, two-story and Cape Cod homes for sale by more than 150 dealers

TOWN OF ULSTER
A change of ownership in a local automotive sales and service firm brings to the area two men with a combined total of 42 years of experience in the automotive business.

Warren Hammond and Thomas Murphy recently took over operation of Colonial Lincoln-Mercury, located on the East Chester Street Bypass (Route 9W north) just south of the Ulster Avenue Mall intersection. The firm was formerly known as DeWitt Lincoln-Mercury.

Both owners formerly served as general managers of large auto dealerships in Dutchess County before combining forces to take over the Ford Motor Company dealership here.

As a special offer to enable them to get acquainted with Lincoln and Mercury owners in the area, they have a special gift for persons who purchased their cars from the previous owner. "Just stop in and pick it up," they offer.

As part of the changeover the new owners are busy remodeling the building inside and out, installing attractive wood paneling on interior walls of the salesroom and offices. They hope to have everything completed in time for a grand opening ceremony in early February.

Both men are optimistic about their move from Dutchess County to Ulster County. "We hope to bring some new ideas to the Kingston area," Murphy said.

Hammond, a native of Westchester County, is married and the father of two children, Nicole, 11, and Warren Jr., 4.

Murphy, originally from Massachusetts, is married and the father of three children, Thomas Jr., 17, Barbara, 15, and Drew, 13. Both families plan to move to this area in the near future.

Beneficial Finance... Instant Tax Refund

KINGSTON The Thibaults, according to Manager Cifello, wanted their tax refund cash right away. Thibault, an ardent skier, said, "It's great to have our refund money right now. We could wait for our refund check from the Government, but by then, all the snow would be gone." Manager Cifello said, "The Thibaults are the first of tens of thousands of taxpayers across the country who will, this year, be coming to Beneficial Finance. Beneficial will lend him for an 'Instant Tax Refund.' A number of those taxpayers, said Cifello, 'will be coming to our office here at 296 Wall Street to get the same fast Finance System located in the service that the Thibaults received.'"

Until Sony Color TV... Better Color was just a promise.

Sony simplified its TV system and got better color. They call it Trinitron. Sony invented its color TV as it was meant to be: all colors are shot through one big color gun.

The Trinitron system has a bigger lens, too. Twice as large as other TV's.
With the larger lens you get a sharper,
brighter picture.

There are many other features too!

Automatic color control; integrated contrast-color control; pictures stay crisp and brilliant at all points on the screen; all solid state circuitry for greater reliability; contemporary wood cabinet styling.

Come in and watch the Trinitron System with 12" diagonal screen deliver a sharper, brighter, and a better color picture.

Congressman Gilman Notes Poultry Ban

WASHINGTON, D.C. — States Department of Agriculture officials setting forth the problems the poultrymen faced with eggs and poultry entering the U.S. from countries not having programs controlling the exotic Newcastle disease which destroys poultry. Congressman Gilman said that agriculture officials sympathetic to the plight of area poultrymen, were fully cognizant of the threat of Newcastle Disease. Accordingly, the department has now issued a ban on the importation of fresh poultry meat and has placed severe restrictions on the importation of eggs, Gilman said.

He noted that the Agriculture Department's restrictions on eggs require that all imported eggs be washed, sanitized and packed in new cartons, flats, dividers and crates. The eggs must also be certified by a veterinary official of the exporting nations as having come from flocks proven to be free of Newcastle Disease.

Certification will not be required if the eggs are sent under seal directly from the port of entry to an approved egg processing plant for breaking and pasteurization under federal egg inspection supervision.

Gilman stated that he was arranging a conference in Washington between the area poultrymen and Agriculture Department officials to discuss their egg marketing problems.

Assistant Is Appointed

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Miss Mary Elizabeth Coogan of North Attleboro, Mass., has been appointed legislative assistant to Congressman Benjamin A. Gilman.

Miss Coogan received her BA degree in English from Regis College in Weston, Mass. in 1968 and has taught secondary English in Massachusetts since that time. She has also earned additional credits toward a master's degree in psychology from Boston College. She joined the Gilman for Congress campaign staff in May, serving in several capacities throughout the campaign.

Assigned to Congressman Gilman's Washington office at 1723 Longworth Building, Miss Coogan will be working on proposed congressional legislation, legislative inquiries, congressional records and will

Interviews Are Reported

ELLENVILLE — Nearly 2,000 interviews were conducted at the Wawarsing Neighborhood Service Center during the past year, according to the annual report issued by Mrs. Helen Oliver, community organizer.

The people interviewed were counseled and then referred to appropriate agencies for employment, social services, legal services and health care.

One of the major accomplishments during the year, according to the report, was the establishment of the Meals on Wheels program for senior citizens which is serving an average of 20 meals a day, five days a week.

Young people in the community were aided by the Neighborhood Youth Corps which employed approximately 30 teenagers during the summer.

At the December meeting of the advisory board of the Service Center, community problems were discussed. A growing need for a day care facility as well as a teen center were pointed out.

The advisory board has decided to bring some of these problems to the attention of the community and to ask their cooperation in seeking solutions. The Neighborhood Service Center is the local arm of Community Action.

Corps of Engineers Extend Marina Study

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — The Army Corps of Engineers has extended its study of the proposed Rondout Creek Marina while the city of Kingston does some studying of its own in an attempt to pin down the ultimate cost of the project. The Freeman has learned. City officials met as long ago as late last November with Alexander Gronville of the State Department of Parks and Recreation, Division of Marine and Recreational Vehicles, Bureau of Marine Services, a meeting which to federal officials indicated "continued city interest" and resulted in the extension of the study period. Indications are, however, that even under the optimum conditions, assuming the city approves the project and some $600,000 as its share, and state and federal monies are available for the remaining million dollars of the cost, it is doubtful whether construction on the marina would begin until mid-1974. John Zammit of the Corps of Engineers told The Freeman while the Corps would need from "nine months to a year," to complete its plans (which would then have to be approved by city and state agencies), before it could begin actual construction. Jay Hogan, of the city engineer's office, is attempting to compile definite cost figures but indicates that he won't be finished for another "month or so." Hogan's job on this project is two-fold, not only is he attempting to figure out the overall cost, he is also attempting to figure out revenues and operating expenses. In short, the city wants to know how deep the water will be before it takes the plunge. Hogan told The Freeman this week that rental fees on boats docking at the marina could run from as low as $53,000 to $76,000, based on 342 docking spaces for boats ranging in size from 16 feet to the "large cruiser class," in excess of 34 feet. Gronvall, interviewed by The Freeman, supports the project. "We think it is a very worthwhile project and needed," he said.

Gronvall does not feel that a municipal marina would be in competition with other area (private) marinas. "We're not out to make money," Gronvall said, indicating that rates charged would be in line with prevailing local rates. "We haven't found a place yet where it (a municipally operated marina) has hurt their business. In fact, we think it will help their business by bringing more boating to the area." The Corps of Engineers estimates its part of the project cost (the dredging of a channel and the construction of a dike) at some $428,000 with the Corps paying one half the cost, the state a quarter and the city a quarter. But the major expense is in the "upland" facilities, the marina itself, docking facilities, buildings, an access road and parking lots. The Corps of Engineers does not share in that cost; another federal agency, the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, with the state acting as its agent, pays 50 per cent of the cost with the city paying the remaining 50 per cent.

Rehabilitation at Napanoch:

'Improve Community Relations'

EDITOR'S NOTE — In this concluding segment of a two-part series on new programs and goals instituted at the Eastern New York Correctional Facility at Napanoch, Daily Freeman staffer Jon Powers reports on attempts to improve community-convict relations. And, the prisoners themselves offer comments on renewed attempts at rehabilitation.

By JON POWERS

NAPANOCH — When an inmate discards his "prison blues" and walks out the gate for a second start in life, the chances are better than ever that he's leaving with two strikes already against him: a largely unsuccessful prison rehabilitation program, and the mood of fear and distrust that he faces when he returns to the community. Recent years have seen a new thrust in prison reform, prompted in part by the bloody rebellion at Attica in 1971. The introduction of new and expanded educational and social programs are now heralded by prison officials throughout the country. Just as important, however, are new concepts designed to minimize the effects of cultural shock an inmate experiences when he makes the sudden transition from the ordered regimen of prison life to the freedom of choice and action outside the walls. And, just as employers, churches and community and civic groups for prepare the inmate for the day he leaves the prison, new programs are needed, as well, to prepare the community for the arrival of the ex-con.

The Eastern New York Correctional Facility at Napanoch is participating in a program first instituted last year by the New York State Department of Corrections. Its purpose is to develop outside community resources to benefit the just-released inmate. "If we're going to rehabilitate the inmate," said Amos Sunshine, Napanoch's coordinator of community resources, "we have to establish some type of relationship with the community. It's senseless to rehabilitate a man, and then have the community reject him just because he's an ex-con." Sunshine, who is the former director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps in Dutchess County, feels it is vitally important that jobs await the inmates when they leave prison. "The men often feel that people don't want any part of them," said Sunshine. "We're trying to find people who are willing to give an ex-con a chance." Sunshine covers most of the Northeast in his search for jobs for the inmates. He contacts new programs that guarantee he never comes back," said Sunshine. Although that is the goal of the new reforms instituted in New York State's sprawling and prison system, there is at least one official at Napanoch who feels the changes won't accomplish anything at all.

The Rev. William M. O'Brien, Roman Catholic chaplain at Napanoch, testified before the National Assembly on Legal Justice in Washington, D. C. last week, and was harshly critical in his evaluation of the prison atmosphere. Rev. O'Brien said federal and state funds appropriated after the Attica riot were used at Napanoch for new uniforms for the guards and prisoners and new riot equipment. He also charged that there is no substantial narcotics rehabilitation program at the prison, even though most of the inmates are serving time for drug sale or possession. The 36-year-old priest said both prison officials and the public must change their attitudes about ex-cons. "They need to be treated as people," he told the panel. And, he said the ex-cons aren't fit for employment once they leave prison because they're not sufficiently trained during their stay in prison.

Others, particularly Robert McClay, Napanoch's deputy superintendent for program services, who's responsibility it is to establish new educational and vocational programs at the prison, probably wouldn't agree with Rev. O'Brien. And it's hard to tell just how the inmates feel themselves. The Freeman spoke recently with several of the inmates at Napanoch. Asked what changes they favored in the prison routine, the inmates cited conjugal visiting privileges with wives or girlfriends, greater opportunity to watch television, better training for skilled jobs and additional courses that deal with black history and culture. None seemed at all impressed with the educational or vocational offerings at the prison, and one was especially critical of a new sociology course at the prison, dismissing the instructor as "stupid." To the outsider, the dominating mood at Napanoch is one of boredom, with inmates simply biding their time until the day they're released. Whether the new programs of the State Department of Corrections can help change that attitude, and offer revitalized and rehabilitated ex-cons to the community, remains to be seen.

Special

"I think that society has an obligation to help these people," he said recently. "If we don't take care of him when he gets out, he'll surely return. Call it charity, generosity, whatever you want, it's still a public obligation." Sunshine is involved in other programs at Napanoch meant to give the prisoners a better sense of themselves. He meets regularly with the inmates to solicit their ideas and opinions on the changes they'd like to see in the daily prison routine, tries to assist with personal or social problems that affect their lives, and hears the goals and plans that every inmate has for the years that follow his term in prison. "An inmate leaves prison now with $40 and a new suit of clothes. We have to do better than that. We have to establish

Residents Speak Against Phys. Ed. Cuts

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices opened higher today, boosted by positive government reports on the economy.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was fractionally higher and advancing issues piled up a 2-to-1 lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange in moderate trading.

The Commerce Department reported that personal income increased by $7.7 billion in December and another department report is expected to show "real" GNP surged at an 8 1/2 percent annual rate during 1972's fourth quarter.

On Wednesday, helped by encouraging news from Vietnam and more familiarity with the meaning of Phase 3, stock market prices halted a three-day decline and posted a modest gain.

NEW PALTZ — A group of district residents spoke for two hours at Wednesday night's meeting of the New Paltz Board of Education against any possible cut in the district's regular physical education program.

Dr. James Hicken, district superintendent, said the district was studying the possibility of cutting back the number of days per week New Paltz students are required to take physical education. Middle and high school students presently take physical education five days a week in the New Paltz district, and according to Hicken that is much more than most other districts.

Hicken said the possibility of cutting that back to two or three days a week was being studied. According to the superintendent, that may allow time for additional courses and eliminate after school science laboratories, and may be a "more fiscally responsible" way of spending the district's money.

Many of those at the meeting seemed particularly concerned about the possible elimination of physical education staff member Kimble Matter's job. Matter is the coach of the district wrestling program, and was given much of the credit for the program's success by those at the meeting.

Apparently, according to what the district residents and some teachers said at the meeting, Matter was told by High School Principal Dr. Robert Bennett that he should start looking for another job.

Bennett was not at the meeting to confirm or deny this. Hickey said he had heard "third hand" that this was informal advice given by Bennett in response to a question by Matter about his future status, but this was denied by those residents at the meeting.

Matter was not present at the meeting either.

Hicken said repeatedly the study had not been completed, and no recommendations had been formed or made to the board of education. Board President Mrs. Joan Bivona noted that the board would have the final say on any recommendation made to it.

Those who spoke in favor of the five day a week physical education program said the five days were not excessive, the program was a good vehicle for physical expression by students not involved in extra-curricular athletic programs, and students' physical involvement in the program helped to combat drug abuse.

Hicken said he had a meeting scheduled for Thursday with the whole physical education staff to discuss the study.

A possible change in the foreign language program is also being studied, according to Hicken. He said the foreign language program may be changed from a grade 7-12 program to a grade 9-12 program. Some of those at the meeting spoke against this possible change, too.

Hicken emphasized that there would be no decrease in the present intramural and interscholastic programs, no matter what change was made in the physical education program. However, some of the residents at the meeting said Matter was the only teacher in the district qualified to coach wrestling, and the possible cut in the physical education program could thus affect the wrestling program.

Dr. Robert Bassik, principal of the Duzine School, reported an "significant" statistical advantage over traditional Alphabet, system of teaching reading in the Duzine School, based on a 44-character phonetic alphabet, will be continued on a limited basis.

The district may sponsor the First Annual New Paltz Rodeo, according to Hicken, as a fund raising activity for the improvement of athletic facilities decided upon.

He said he was satisfied that it was an effective teaching system though it did not offer any "significant" statistical advantage over traditional methods. The system, which is based on a 44-character phonetic alphabet, will be continued on a limited basis.

The district may sponsor the First Annual New Paltz Rodeo, according to Hicken, as a fund raising activity for the improvement of athletic facilities decided upon.

at the high school. Hicken said the district would have to put up no money, and could raise from $1-6,000. The event is tentatively scheduled for June; the location has not yet been decided upon.

'Lame Duck Bill' Introduced

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Rep. Hamilton Fish, Jr. today introduced legislation to cut off the much abused practice of "lame duck" junkets by members of the House and Senate at taxpayers expense.

"I realize that in relative terms the costs of such trips are small, but this practice by defeated or retiring House and Senate members junketing all over the world reflects adversely on every member of Congress, and should be stopped," Fish said.

Congressman Fish said in introducing the legislation that he saw nothing wrong with members traveling abroad if the trips can be justified in helping discharge the duties and responsibilities of the members of Congress.

"This bill is aimed only toward those Representatives and Senators, after they retire or are defeated in either a primary or general election, to make them ineligible for travel unless such travel is approved by a specific resolution of the Congress," Fish said.

"I suspect there are many off the hook and in my opinion committee chairmen who have would improve the overall image of the Congress itself and approve vouchers for lame duck help improve our own members for travel, when the housekeeping," Fish said.

Freeman Show to Be Bigger Than Ever

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

There's big news about our fifth annual Freeman fashion show. We are making a second move to larger quarters in order to accommodate the public's demand for tickets.

Wednesday afternoon, Richard L. Treat, Freeman publisher signed a contract with Walter Reade Theatres putting the 1973 FREEMAN FASHION PREMIERE in the Community Theatre on Tuesday, April 3 at 7:30 p.m.

Dan Cox, city theatre manager and area representative for Walter Reade Organizations, Inc., told The Freeman yesterday:

"We are so happy to welcome this successful show into our theatre house. It is the most outstanding benefit show of its kind in the Hudson Valley and we are happy to be a part of it this year." Joining Mr. Cox in these sentiments is Marge Thomas, manager of the Community Theatre.

The Freeman fashion show is given for the benefit of United Way of Ulster County and its 15 member agencies. The agencies assisted with funds from United Way include the Boy and Girl Scouts; Jewish Community Center; YMCA and YWCA; Kingston Boys Club; Family Service Center; Children's Rehabilitation Center; Gateway Industries; Mental Health and Red Cross; Salvation Army; USO; Blood Bank and children and adults who are mentally or physically handicapped.

"We are extremely happy with what has been done and the way it is being done." Dick Fredenberg, executive director of United Way of Ulster County, told the Women's Department today. "It is a wonderful opportunity to view the latest in spring and summer clothes and still know that one is participating in a most worthwhile endeavor." Mr. Fredenberg said about the show.

Since the show will be housed in a much larger auditorium, the work of many talented people will help make it one of the biggest and finest shows of its kind. These talented individuals will be announced by the Women's Department.

The show will continue its format of live music, more than 100 models, gifts and live entertainment. Arrangements are now being completed for several stage acts giving the audience a package of fun and fashions.

Area merchants are already responding about participation in the pre-Easter production.

Tickets to the 1973 FREEMAN FASHION PREMIERE are now available. Reservations may be made by contacting Dianne Norton at The Daily Freeman or by using a coupon which will be published on the women's page beginning Sunday. Watch for it. Ticket donation is $3 per person and will be sold on a first come, first served basis. No reserved seats in the theatre.

We are also happy to report that all of last year's waiting list has been serviced and advance ticket sales are being received.

representative for Walter Reade Organization, Inc., and Dorothy A. Narel, women's page editor of The Freeman, who will be serving again as general coordinator of the show. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

AAUW Takes 'A Second Look at China'

The New Paltz Branch of the American Association of University Women will meet Tuesday, Jan. 23 at 8 p.m. in the Joe Deyo Room of the Inter-County Savings Bank.

Dr. Irving Barnett of SUNY College at New Paltz will speak about "A Second Look at China."

Dr. Barnett holds a BA from Yale, a DJ from Columbia, and a PhD from Columbia. He has taught economics for 18 years, specializing in problems of developing countries. China studies have been his particular specialty since 1943 when he was sent to study Far East areas and Chinese languages at Harvard by the Army.

He has subsequently worked several times for the United Nations, including a time from 1946 to 1947 when he was with the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration (UNRRA). At this time he worked as an economic planner in the reconstruction of certain devastated areas, but also in UNRRA's program of aid to areas then under control of the Chinese Communists. While with SUNY Dr. Barnett has worked to see that the University promotes a better understanding of China among people in New York State.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of AAUW is invited to contact Mrs. Karen Lent, membership chairman, at New Paltz.

The Crisis in Public Education study group will meet at 10 a.m. on Thursday, Feb. 1, at the home of Mrs. Veronica Luczai. The topic for discussion will be the second and third parts of the Fleischmann Commission Report.

Olives Bridge Gap Between Budget and Party Meals

Bridge the gap between bright party foods and the usually less enticing budget dishes with the dark accent and nutty flavor of the California ripe olive. It adds an eye-catching note, a nutty flavor, and a certain elegance that makes a budget dish something special. The cassoulet has long been known as a dish that helps to stretch the food budget and yet it can have a simple elegance that makes it perfect for serving family or guests. Chicken, sausages, and kidney beans make the basic cassoulet. Then tomato sauce, chicken broth, green pepper, onion, seasonings and ripe olives are added. Baked together for about an hour, this basic country dish is a simple meal with an interesting taste twist.

If when you purchase ripe olives and the price is somewhat higher, there is a reason. When the big freeze hit California last year, the olive fruit buds were severely damaged. The result was a much smaller crop and, of course, many less olives for canning. However, there are enough olives for everyone to enjoy and using the best size for the purpose needed will make them fit better into a budget. Use the larger sizes for snacks and relishes and the smaller sizes for ingredient use. Ripe olives do add that special flavor and accent to casseroles, sauces, vegetables and many other meat and poultry dishes.

Ripe Olive Cassoulet

Four large pieces frying chicken
One tablespoon butter or margarine
One tablespoon oil
Four garlic sausages or frankfurters
One-half cup chopped onion

Two-thirds cup chopped green pepper
Two (15 ounces) cans white kidney beans
One (six ounce) can tomato sauce
One-half cup chicken broth
One teaspoon salt
One bay leaf
One-half teaspoon thyme, crushed
One-eighth teaspoon tabasco sauce
One cup canned pitted California ripe olives, drained
Preheat oven to 350 degrees F. Melt butter. Add chicken pieces and brown slowly. Remove chicken from skillet. Cut sausages in half and brown lightly. Add onion and green pepper, and saute until soft but not browned. Add undrained beans, tomato sauce, broth, salt, bay leaf, thyme, tabasco and drained ripe olives. Spoon into two-quart baking dish. Place chicken pieces on top, and push down into liquid so they are partly covered. Cover dish. Bake for one hour, or until chicken is tender. Makes four servings.

RIPE OLIVE CASSOULET

Doing the Right Thing

By Elizabeth L. Post
© 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.
So that my readers will know what to do next year, I'm printing this letter now.

Dear Mrs. Post:

When Christmas carolers come to my door, I never know what to do. If I am in the middle of dinner or some important project, I don't want to be disturbed. After they sing, what should I do? I don't want to be rude.

Every Christmas I wonder about this. What is proper?

Every:

Dear Evelyn:

Even though you are very busy in the days before

Christmas, you owe the carolers the courtesy of listening to them. Many people offer them cookies or cider or coffee, but that is not necessary. They are caroling to spread joy and the Christmas spirit, and not for reward. Giving up five minutes to listen to them is all the payment they expect for their efforts, and since you surely will not be visited by more than two or three groups (if that) those ten or fifteen minutes are the least

you can give to show your Christmas spirit.

I am planning a surprise

birthday party for my mother in February. She will be seventy-five years old. I am holding it at the church

recreation hall with catered service. I feel that I should have something to round out the hours from three to eight besides just having the people stand around and talk. What type of entertainment would be right?

Please give me any ideas that you may have for I want this party to be a success.

Faye Edwards

Dear Mrs. Edwards:

Unless your invitations have already gone out, I would suggest that you shorten the length of your party. Five hours is a very long time for anyone to try to be welcoming, gay, etc., and your seventy-five-year-old mother will be absolutely exhausted. Don't forget that while guests may come and go (if it is an Open House),

she must stay on until the end.

And, yes, some entertainment would be a good idea. If your church has a choir, they might be invited to sing for a little while or the organist would perhaps play several times during the party. You might also hire a strolling accordionist or guitarist to entertain the guests.

What is your most puzzling etiquette problem? To the sender of the most interesting question that I receive each week, I will send a free copy of Emily Post's Etiquette. The question chosen, and its answer, will be published in this column, and don't forget to send your name and address.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1972 by Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know how to handle the problem of guests who bring their unwelcome pets when they visit.

My sister and her husband have two obnoxious poodles. They are not trained and are a menace to my children and household furnishings.

I once jokingly hinted, "I can tie our children outside if they get on your dogs' nerves." (No reaction.) These dogs have growled and snapped at our children without provocation, and our little ones are terrified of them.

On their last visit, one of the dogs lifted his leg on my collection of African violets and all my sister said was, "Whoops, Curley had an accident!" (It was no accident.)

I like animals, Abby, and am not cruel to them, but these poodles are more than I can take.

I love my sister and wouldn't want her to discontinue her visits to me entirely, but how can I handle this?

DOG PROBLEM

DEAR PROBLEM: Quit hinting and joking, and tell your sister you love her, and her visits, but not her dogs! But be sure to place the blame where it belongs. Ill-mannered, and untrained pets are a reflection of their ignorant, lazy owners.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's brother is suing his parents! How about that one? Joe claims his parents owe him $3,900. It seems when Joe was in the service he kept sending home war bonds. Well, after Joe came out of the service the folks gave him money left and right whenever he asked for it, but they had to cash the bonds to do it, so now there are no more bonds left. Joe claims his parents OWE him the money. And the folks say they don't.

What I want to know is this: Can a guy sue his own parents?

WONDERING

Anybody can sue whomever he wants to sue. Whether he can WIN or not is anybody's guess — until after the case is settled.

DEAR ABBY: Because I know I speak for many women, I hope you will print this open letter to my husband.

Dear Joe (fictitious name): You have on occasion criticized me for the way I look, and how different things are from our early years together. Well, I guess you're right. I've heard your side of the story, now here's mine:

When we were courting, you couldn't see me enough. This continued thru our honeymoon and the early months of our marriage. You really made me feel on top of the world. I knew my place in your life. But when the newness wore off, I got shoved further and further into the background. You started going places with your buddies again. Your ego and your job became more important to you than your home and family.

Maybe my figure isn't what it used to be. But pregnancies and childbirth can do that to a woman. (You've gained weight, too. What's your excuse?)

I spend four and five days and nights alone with the kids, being both mother and father to them. If you're home for supper two nights a week you think you deserve a medal. You DO support us, but the paycheck is not enough. We need your presence, too. How long do you intend to ignore the warning signals our older children have given us by the way of the distress they feel over the family being separated so much? It's high time you realize that our kids need a father, too.

So if I eat more than I should, it's only because I am so unhappy over our life and your refusal to take an active part in it.

YOUR PART-TIME WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I'm betting I get at least 100 letters asking, "Did my wife write that?"

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. (Hear Dear Abby Mon. thru Sat. at 9:07 a.m. WKY-1490)

NICE WORK IF YOU CAN GET IT — Derek Sanderson (L) signs his 2.6 million contract in an Aug. 3, 1972 photo from files with the Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association. His lawyer, Bob Woolf (C), and then co-owner of the Blazers Jim Cooper look on. Wednesday, the Blazers announced that they had settled the Sanderson contract for a cash sum, and was no longer a part of their organization. (UPI)

Sanderson Takes Philly's Million

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The strange career of Derek Sanderson with the Philadelphia Blazers of the World Hockey Association is over. It started with a $2.6 million bang and went out with a whimper. Sanderson signed a multiyear pact making him the highest paid player in professional sports—and that includes Pele, the famed Brazilian soccer star. But Tuesday the Blazers paid the flashy center off for a reported $1 million. With his client playing golf in Jamaica, attorney Bob Woolf of Boston said he had reached agreement with the Blazers for "an immediate settlement giving Sanderson his unconditional release."

"The team thought it had undertaken an economic burden that it could not justify in the future," said Woolf as explanation for Sanderson's departure. The Blazers have been drawing poorly while the National Hockey League Flyers are playing to packed houses. There were reports earlier in the season that Blazers' owner Bernie Brown wanted to dump Sanderson, but no team wanted to be saddled with the expensive contract. Sanderson is now free to negotiate with any team in the WHA, or return to his former club in the NHL the Stanley Cup champion Boston Bruins. "I don't know where we'd play him," Bruins' Managing Director Harry Sinden said in Boston. "We're very satisfied with our three centers. We'd have to make an adjustment some place. I don't feel we need help at center right now."

Sanderson, one of the big name catches the WHA made when it raided the NHL, reported late to the Blazers because of legal battles between the two leagues. After several games he suffered a back injury that eventually required hospitalization. When Sanderson was discharged he claimed he was ready to play but by that time the team was looking for someone to buy his contract. He wasn't allowed to play during that period even though he claimed the team doctor had given him a clean bill of health. In reflection, Woolf said, "Derek did not act as I would have wanted him to act when he first came down here. His attitude was not what it should have been."

The lawyer apparently was referring to an interview in which Sanderson criticized Philadelphia fans. Woolf, who represents many high-paid pro athletes, said Sanderson "was not in shape" because of the court fights and "too many things were happening all at once."

Dick Olsen, the Blazers' new president, said "losing Sanderson may hurt our chances for the playoffs but we are willing to sacrifice that. It is simply a matter of economics."

The Blazers are 17-26-0 and in last place in the WHA East.

Weakened Montreal Survives Injuries

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pity the poor Montreal Canadiens, struck down by a series of injuries that has their dressing room looking like a hospital ward. All-Stars Ken Dryden, out with a bad back, and Yvan Cournoyer, nursing an abdominal injury, were out of action for Wednesday night's National Hockey League test against Pittsburgh. And at least a half dozen other Montreal players including captain Henri Richard, were bothered by a variety of other ailments.

So naturally, playing in that weakened condition, Montreal only rallied for three third-period goals to knock off the Penguins 6-4.

Elsewhere in the NHL Wednesday night, Chicago staged a similar rally to overtake Detroit 6-4. Atlanta tied St. Louis 3-3. Los Angeles tied the New York Rangers 4-4 and California skated to a 3-3 tie against Toronto. In the World Hockey Association, it was New England 4, Chicago 2, and Cleveland 5, Houston 0. The Canadiens inserted Rejean Houle to replace Cournoyer and he responded with three goals for the first hat-trick of his NHL career. The three goals gave him eight for the season. Chicago also used three third-period goals by Cliff Koroll, J. P. Bordeleau and Dick Redmond to overtake Detroit. The loss ended a six-game winning streak for the Red Wings and extended their losing streak against the Black Hawks to 14 games. Detroit has not beaten Chicago since April 1, 1970. Mickey Redmond, Dick's brother, had two goals for the Red Wings while Bordeleau clicked twice for Chicago. Larry Romanchuk's third-period goal eased amazing Atlanta into its tie with St. Louis and extended rookie goalie Dan Bouchard's unbeaten streak to nine games. Bouchard has not lost since Dec. 9 when the Blues beat the first year Flames. Hilliard Graves' second goal of the game midway through the third period boosted California into its tie against Toronto. Jim Neilson's goal with 1:22 left lifted the Rangers into their tie with Los Angeles. All four New York goals were scored by defensemen with Ron Harris, Dale Rolfe and Rod Seiling getting the others, after the Kings had built a 3-0 lead in the first period. Gerry Cheevers recorded his fifth shutout of the WHA season and Jim Wiste scored two goals, leading Cleveland past Houston. The victory was the eighth in the last 10 games for the Crusaders, who ended a four-game Houston winning streak. New England tagged Chicago with its sixth straight defeat, with goals by John Danby and Kevin Ahearn 22 seconds apart in the third period clinching the victory. The Cougars managed only 19 shots at New England goalie Al Smith.

Olga Korbut Top Athlete

NEW YORK (AP) — Olga Korbut, the spirited sprite of the Soviet gymnastics team at the 1972 Summer Games, is The Associated Press Female Athlete of the Year. Miss Korbut, winner of three gold medals and a silver medal at the Munich Olympics, out-poled American tennis rebel Billie Jean King, reigning queen of the courts, 222 to 202 in balloting by sportswriters and broadcasters released Wednesday. Olympic swimmer Shane Gould of Australia was third with 118 votes. The Olympic heroine, virtually unknown before the Munich Games, was hailed at the close of competition as being on the horizon of historic greatness. Olga is going places," said United States gymnast Cathy Rigby. "Undoubtedly she's their protege."

But there now is speculation that the 84-pound, 4-foot-11 acrobat may never compete again. Miss Korbut suffered a back injury during a December workout and was reported recuperating at a health resort in the Caucasian Republic of Tskhaltubo. Official Soviet sources said she was unavailable to discuss her injury or comment on being the first Iron Curtain athlete to receive the AP award since it was initiated in 1931. Olga, a 17-year-old schoolgirl from the town of Grodno near the Polish border, performed in nearly flawless fashion at Munich in winning gold medals for the balance beam and floor exercises with scores of 9.90 of a possible 10. But it was while competing in her favorite event, the uneven parallel bars that she won the hearts of viewers around the world—and lost a chance for two more gold medals. With pigtails flying, Miss Korbut flipped and flung with apparent ease, then fell to the floor in a heap. She was up in a flash and finished her routine then left in a flood of tears. The golden girl lost her chance for the coveted over-all individual honors. The next day she tied East German Karin Janz with a 9.80 on the bars in individual competition. But the judges revised Miss Janz' score upwards to 9.90 to loud boos of the crowd of 12,000. Miss Korbut rose to the platform and asked for quiet. She lost the gold medal but won the crowd.

Sore Arm 'Slows' Rick

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry came up with a sore shooting arm Wednesday night, so he only scored 51 points as Golden State defeated Houston 123-117 in National Basketball Association play. Barry poured in 34 points in the first half for the Warriors, but his right arm stiffened during the intermission and he had a cold third quarter. His 51 points—which included 24 field goals—set a record for the San Antonio Convention Center Arena, where the Rockets are playing a number of their home games. It also was Barry's highest scoring total since returning to the NBA after playing the past four seasons in the American Basketball Association. Nate Thurmond, the Warriors' center who is acting as player-coach while Al Attles is out with the flu, scored 27 points and hauled in 18 rebounds. Houston had seven players

Frank Shorter Named For Sullivan Award

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Olympic gold medal freestyle wrestler Dan Gable of Waterloo, Iowa, with 1,577 points, was named the 1972 Sullivan Award winner who claimed seven gold medals in the 1972 Olympics, was in-eligible for the award because of a no-repeat rule. Gold medal woman diver Micki King of Hermosa Beach, Calif., was third in the vote with 1,104 points, followed by gold medal swimmer Michael Burton of Sacramento, Calif., with 1,012 points and track medalist Dave Wottle of Can- ton, Ohio, with 708 points. Second in the balloting was Lon, Ohio, with 708 points.

LOOK OUT FOR NEW YORK — The Dallas Cowboys and the Washington Redskins have managed to put together one of the better rivalries in the NFL lately, but lurking in the corner of the division is a team some people think the Cowboys and Redskins should be concerned as much as with each other. Norm Snead, quarterback for the New York Giants, shown here in Dallas for the Pro Bowl, says "Our future looks good." (UPI)

Hawkins Becomes Sports' Rickles

DALLAS (UPI) — Alex Hawkins never made it to the Pro Bowl as a player, but he will be there Sunday behind a microphone, and as usual when Hawkins is turned loose on an unsuspecting audience, what happens in the booth could be as interesting as what is happening on the field. "I wouldn't say Billy Kilmer threw the ball badly in the Super Bowl," Hawkins said Wednesday during the annual Pro Bowl luncheon, "but how come he can't get anybody to sit at his table?" Hawkins, gaining the reputation as the Don Rickles of sports, doesn't hesitate to express an opinion, much to the alarm of television directors around the country. Once during the just completed season Hawkins was commenting about Ted "the Mad Stork" Hendricks, an old roommate of his at Baltimore. Hendricks will be on the AFC squad Sunday. Hawkins' broadcasting partner on this occasion made reference to Hendricks' skinny legs. "Hell," said Hawkins, "they didn't get him to breed him. They got him to play football."

So the appearance of Hawkins Wednesday was about the liveliest thing that has happened during the week leading up to the third NFC-AFC Pro Bowl. He will be the analyst commentator Sunday on the national telecast of the game, which begins at 3 p.m. CST at Texas Stadium. Hawkins' main target Wednesday were Kilmer, Chicago linebacker Dick Butkus and Pittsburgh Steeler Coach Chuck Noll, who will coach the AFC All-Stars Sunday. "Kilmer's passes float so much they're sure easy to catch," Hawkins said of the Washington Redskin quarterback. "And you have an option of catching either end of the ball." Butkus was sitting just a few feet from Hawkins when the former Baltimore specialty team captain started in on him.

"What do I think of Dick Butkus?" asked Hawkins. "Well, I think he is a very nice man." "He was awarded three game balls this season. And he ate all three. You know that after a game he doesn't take showers, He just licks himself." Noll was an assistant coach at Baltimore while Hawkins was still playing there. And Hawkins had a quick comparison between Noll and the NFC coach, Tom Landry. "You know how silent Landry is? Well he is a loudmouth compared with Chuck Noll. Look at the two of them over there. They are talking in sign language." Noll took advantage of his opportunity to retort. "I understand there has been a drought in this area," Noll said. "What you ought to do is build a pipeline from here up to Lake Texoma (on the Texas-Klaskahoma border). And if Alex Hawkins can suck it in as good as he blows out, you would have all the water you want."

New Head Coach Says Eagles 'Can Win'

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — If Mike McCormack weren't so when he said Wednesday the Philadelphia Eagles "can win" next season. McCormack, a former All-Pro lineman and an assistant to Vince Lombardi and George Allen with the Washington Redskins, had just signed a three-year contract as the new head coach of the Eagles. He had inherited an offense that scored only 12 touchdowns last season while averaging the lowest number of points (10.4) in pro football. Only two of those touchdowns came on runs and one was a quarterback sneak. He had inherited a defense that gave up 62 points in a game against the New York Giants last November and managed to sack the quarterback only 16 times the entire season. He had inherited a team that stumbled to a 2-11-1 record last season and seemed a long, long way from a winning season. But McCormack, 42, agrees with his former boss Allen that "the future is now."

"I think we can win next season," said the 6-foot-4, 245-pound former Cleveland Browns lineman. "If it's humanly possible, my coaching staff and I will bring it about."

McCormack, who is credited with building the Redskins' offensive line into one of the best in football, promised to bring the Eagles "back to respectability."

Foreman Ready

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI) — George Foreman is ready for Joe Frazier now. Right now. So says George Foreman and Co. The 24-year-old challenger from Hayward, Calif., put on another impressive show in the ring Wednesday while the champion worked a routine two rounds in the final stages of preparation for their heavyweight title fight Monday night. Foreman, who has just about emptied his camp of sparring partners with an over-aggressive style during his training sessions, put another of his workers out of commission. Carl Baker, the former heavy weight champion of Jamaica, was left paralyzed by a left hook to the body and Foreman, following his instincts, moved in for the kill. He landed several more blows against the helpless Baker before trainer Dick Sadler came to the rescue. "George hit him with a vicious hook," said Sadler. "That shot froze him. It paralyzed him. I had to jump in there. I had to intervene."

Sadler said it upset him that George has roughed it up in the ring. Foreman already has knocked down two of his sparring partners and broken the ear drum of another. "I give him hell when he beats up on them," said Sadler, who said that Foreman would put the gloves on again Thursday "if there is anybody there to box with."

"If I gotta keep holdin' them up, I just as well have him hit the bag. I've been havin' him boxin' five, six, seven rounds on the big bag. But all this training, it's a lot of bull. It's just part of the whole big show. We're ready now. We come here ready. I was prepared before we came. All my work was done at home."

Still, Foreman will run another three miles at dawn and then off again to the gym for some more sharpening. Both men are tuning down their training and by the weekend they'll be shut in, awaiting the war.

Killy in Field at Hunter

HUNTER — Jean-Claude Killy of France, a Triple Gold Medal winner in the 1968 Winter Olympics at Grenoble, will be in the field for the Benson and Hedges Classic this weekend at Hunter Mountain Ski Bowl.

Racing is scheduled Thursday, Friday and Saturday (Jan. 19-20-21) in the fourth of the 13 races on the 1972-73 B&H Grand Prix of professional ski racing. The Pro Classic is this season's second race in the East. Two weeks ago the pros competed at Mount Snow in Vermont.

Benson and Hedges 100's sponsored its first race at Hunter Mountain in 1970. Since that time it has been actively involved in promoting ski racing and has played a key role in the growth of the sport.

This year's B & H Classic at Hunter is worth $20,000 and with Hunter's trail conditions should be the most spectacular race to date.

Killy, out of competition since his Grenoble triumphs, had rough going in his first appearances on the pro circuit, but captured both ends of the Giant Slalom at Mount Snow. "I think I am adapting to this kind of competition," he said, and "I think I can win from here on out."

Harald Stuefer, a member of Hunter Mountain's famed team, is the leader in Grand Prix points and earnings with $8,175. He will be racing on home territory. The 6.5 Austrian superstar dazzled large crowds in the past three races of the season by winning two Giant Slaloms and one Slalom event. He should be even tougher at home.

Joining Stuefer will be the other Hunter team members — Lasse Hamre, Hugo Nindl, who finished in second place on the tour last year and Kurt Recher.

However, French comebacker Killy, presently No. 2 on the tour with 72 points and $5,950 in earnings will amaze the New York fans with his quicker-than-quick racing style.

But Killy will have to beat Spider Sabich in a head-to-head dual in order to win the Classic. Sabich, holding on to third place in the standings, has passed Killy three times and beaten him twice. He was the No. 1 racer on the tour last season with earnings of more than $55,000.

"I will be doing a lot of winning in the remaining races," the pro champion predicted. "I am planning on being numero uno again."

This preview of the action on the Benson and Hedges classic indicates the face of pro ski racing has changed this season. Nine racers have more than 40 Grand Prix points and, so far, no racer holds an unbeatable lead. Last year, Sabich was out front, never to be caught by any other pro on the tour.

Several racers are in contention for the $90,000 end of the year Benson and Hedges Grand Prix jackpot that will be divided among the top five finishers. With names like Killy, Sabich, Stuefer, Penz, Milne, Palmer and Kashiwa on tour, the competition is too strong to predict a winner so early in the year.

The racing schedule:

Friday, 10 a.m. — Samonsite Challenge; 1:30 qualifying of 10 pros to add to 30 exempt skiers.

Saturday 10 a.m. — Eliminations to reduce field to 16 finalists; 1 p.m., Giant Slalom.

Sunday, 1 p.m. — Slalom; 4 p.m. Awards ceremony.

Bear Kill Down

ALBANY — Catskill Mountain hunters harvested the smallest number of bears since 1951 with their meagre take of 22 in the 1971 season, the State Conservation Department announced today.

Sullivan County led with nine bears, Greene had five and Ulster and Orange Counties recorded four each. The 1971 take was 62 bears.

The statewide total of 437 black bears during 1972 also fell substantially below the average take of 552 for the previous 10 years. The totals included 39 taken during a special early bear season in the Adirondacks. In 1971, 459 bears were taken by hunters.

Game biologists attributed two factors to the sharp decline in Catskill bear take—record cold in October, followed by a major snowstorm on Nov. 14-15 which appeared to drive most Catskill bears into their dens before the big game season opened on Nov. 20.

The snow and cold persisted during the season, resulting in the low take, say the biologists. Of 18 tagged bears that still remain at large in the Catskills, none was reported in the hunter take. Sullivan County had the most bears harvested in the region with nine.

Adirondack counties, which account for more than three-fourths of the state's bear range, were led by Hamilton County with 39 bears, followed by Essex with 65, Herkimer 50 and St. Lawrence 50. One Adirondack bear was taken by bow and arrow in the Town of Newcomb, Essex County. Two tagged bears, both from the Town of Morehouse, Hamilton County, were also taken.

A telephone reporting system was again used successfully. Hunters were asked to report their kill within 48 hours of reaching a road so that they could be contacted promptly for research purposes. This system has increased the number of jaws and skulls collected over the state for aging of bears taken by hunters.

With the help of the public, the Division of Fish and Wildlife hopes to continue gathering biological information needed to preserve and perpetuate healthy populations of one of the state's most interesting wildlife species.

The take by region and county is as follows.

Albany State Rally Checks Marist, 71-57

ALBANY — Albany State College led Marist College of Poughkeepsie 41-30 at the half, fell back 52-51 with 11 minutes remaining and bounced back for a decisive 71-57 triumph.

The victory was the seventh in nine starts and 22nd consecutive home triumph for Coach Dick Sauers' Great Danes.

The Danes responded with a tenacious man-for-man defense after Marist pulled ahead 52-51, and limited the high scoring Dutchess quintet to one basket the rest of the way, outscoring the visitors, 20-5.

(Werner Kohn of Kingston, who has been hobbled with a pulled hamstring muscle, suited up and was ready to play). "We didn't need Werner," said Coach Sauers "and decided to give him a little more rest before our two tough road games this weekend at Buffalo State and Fredonia."

Four Danes finished in double figures, with Ken Johnson and Byron Miller hitting 16 each. John Quattrochi and Bob Rosi each had 10. Marist's high scoring ace, Mike Hart took game honors with 20 points. Finestone added 12 for the losers.

Albany shot 47 per cent from the field (34-74) but received only four free throw tries, converting three. Marist shot 44 per cent in the first half but slumped to 10 for 30 after the recess.

Elsewhere in New York State basketball Wednesday night, of St. Petersburg, Florida for Niagara lost a road game to fifth place in the six-team tournament. Bringham Young, 93-83, and Virginia Commonwealth downed the Golden Griffins of Canisius, 80-66.

In other games, Potsdam clobbered Ottawa, 109-70; Elmira devastated Houghton, 85-64; Buffalo nipped Akron, 73-71; Hobart edged Rochester Tech, 76-74; Amherst outpointed Union, 43-42; and LeMoyne downed Iona, 60-58.

In the Pocono Classic, Cortland State lost 78-68 to Eckard

Ulster Places 3 Bowlers On All-Conference Squad

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College's Mid-Hudson Conference championship team earned three places on the 1972-73 conference all-star team announced today.

Picked for the mythical squad were Steve, Ferraro, a sophomore named for the second straight year, and two freshmen, Robert Sinnott and Robert Norton.

The others named to the team were four Dutchess bowlers — Tom Meyers, Charles Oris, Henry Feris and Barry Winters. Rockland placed two — Robert DiLio and Richard Lombardi. Michael Sisco of Orange rounded out the squad. UCC coach Al Di Bernardo responded happily to the Ulster designations. "I'm pleased that three of our five starters were named to the All-Conference team," he said. "I feel it was a fitting way to recognize their accomplishments in winning the Mid-Hudson crown."

The Senators won the conference crown with a 43-13 points record to nose out Dutchess Community by one point.

Ferraro posted the individual high game in the conference with 264 and his 675 was second among individual high triples. Rockland shaded Ulster, 1005-1003 for team single honors.

Palladino Sets Pace

KINGSTON — A funny thing happened to Phil Palladino on his way to the UCA basketball scoring championship: he managed to hit only two points in a game against Ellenville this week, hampered most of the evening by foul trouble.

So instead of running away with the point derby, as the Coleman High School hotshot appeared to be, Palladino now finds himself just 21 points ahead of Liberty's Ivan Richards, and Richards has two games in hand.

Palladino still has the most points of any individual in the league, 166, but Richards now is the top per game scorer with an average of 24.1.

Ivan, fourth last year, scored 64 points in two games, one of which was a 37 point outburst against Pine Bush, to move from sixth to second.

Jenny Pesavento, last week's runner-up, saw action only once and dropped to fourth, but his 20.6 average is third behind Richards' mark and Palladino's 20.7.

Third in points is Red Hook's tough center Kevin Kelly. He has 136 in seven games, an average of 19.4 per outing. Leon Ware of Ellenville and Ralph Calderon of Wallkill each have 119 points to tie for fifth.

Postponed

KINGSTON — The scheduled Ulster County Athletic League basketball game between Red Hook and Coleman originally set for Friday night at Coleman has been postponed until Saturday night due to the death of a student at the host school.

but Ware has accomplished the feat in six games to Calderon's seven.

Gabriel Blows His Horn on Rams' Selfishness

By MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Roman Gabriel has sat down, thought out the whole thing and come to the debatable conclusion that the Los Angeles Rams can win the world championship next season.

He makes only one provision. They have to get over being a selfish football team. That's right, s-e-l-f-i-s-h.

Like the rest of the Rams' players, Gabriel, in town for a couple of TV appearances, is waiting to see what the front office is going to do about a new coach. Not that he blames Tommy Prothro entirely for the Rams' backslide this past season. Gabriel puts the bulk of the blame exactly where it belongs. On the Rams' players themselves.

"I feel we've got the talent to beat Miami," he says. "What we are lacking is that one important characteristic Miami and Washington both have—togetherness."

Word Becomes Cliche

The word has been used so much, it was suggested, that it has become a cliche, particularly in football. The late Vince Lombardi popularized it and then so many other coaches followed. Now you'd think every team in football is bound together by togetherness.

"Not ours," offers the Rams' candid quarterback.

"There's no reason in the world we shouldn't have done better this past year," he says. "We have the personnel to do it, but for some reason we've become a very selfish ball club."

Why?

"I'd rather not say," said Gabriel, the only time he sidestepped.

"We're simply not the same team we were when George Allen left. I'm speaking from the mental aspect. As far as talent goes, we probably have more of it than when he left."

Gabriel, who watched the Super Bowl game on TV, also followed what the players of both teams had to say before Sunday's game. He read the newspapers every day.

Interested in Interviews

"I was interested in the interviews the players on both teams gave out," he says. "I noticed they didn't care who got the credit, and I'm talking about both the Miami and Washington players. You didn't hear them saying I ... I ... I, and that's the way it has to be if you're gonna win."

"Certain remarks were made all year long about our team," says Gabriel. "They said we were not an emotional team. People took the attitude, 'Well, you guys are being paid to play. You're professionals. You don't need anybody to get up. You oughta be able to get yourselves up.' Well, it doesn't always work the way people think."

"You take Ken Iman on our club. He's as good a center as anyone in the league in my opinion. He doesn't play for money. No way he could. He's not making much money, and he doesn't get any publicity, but he's out there banging his head week after week because he enjoys the game. So many people figure a guy is out there simply for the money, but there's a lot more to the game than that, I assure you."

Gabriel says his arm, which bothered him periodically last season, is coming along fine now. Two doctors, including Dr. Robert Kerland, have recommended he rest it completely for two months, and both feel it will come back.

No Better Coach

Gabriel, who played under George Allen with the Rams and doesn't think there is any better coach in football, watched the Super Bowl game with 10 other people.

When the Redskins kicked off after Mike Bass scored their only touchdown with two minutes left, some of those watching with Gabriel wanted to know how he felt about Allen's not instructing the Redskins to try an onside kick.

"I told them I agreed with Allen," says Gabriel. "You got three time outs. What you do is hold 'em, and get the ball back."

Washington did get the ball back with a minute and seven seconds left but couldn't score. Later Billy Kilmer blamed himself, but Gabriel doesn't see it as being all his fault.

"The pass patterns Kilmer tried to throw are the things he does well, but at the same time those slants are the things Miami slants away best," he says. "That's what it all boiled down to. A lotta people said it was a dull game. I didn't think so. I thought both clubs played very well, and to some people, that seems dull."

Will Ulster Win Two for Mike?

STONE RIDGE
Will Ulster County Community win a couple for Mike when they resume their basketball schedule with games against Greater Hartford CC Friday and tough Broome Tech Saturday?

Well, they may not have to go as far as the Notre Dame did for The Gipper, but a couple of victories would surely restore their momentum for the second half of the 1972-73 season and stretch their modest winning streak to three.

All this also would hasten Coach Mike Perry's recuperation from hemorrhoidal surgery at the Benedictine Hospital.

Dean of Faculty Robert Markes will be at the helm when the Senators host Greater Hartford Friday and Saturday Binghamton in the Hornets' Nest. Markes is a former Middletown High School coach.

UCCS, 14-4, after the foul fiascos of the Robert Morris College Classic at Carthage, Ill. last weekend, dropped out of the top 10 in the latest NJCAA ratings.

UCCS's weekend opponents have one thing in common — solid winning marks. Greater Hartford sports a 9-3 mark, a 93-point offensive average and a 6-5 star in center Dan Jones, who is averaging 17 rebounds and 20 points a game.

Other GH stickouts are forward Dennis Johnson, 6-4, a strong board man; forward Art Laffin, 6-3, the team's best outside shooter and guard Ron Williams, a tremendous 6-0 leaper in the Jackie Knowles mold.

Against common opponents, Great Hartford comes off a poor second to Ulster. The Nutmegers beat Post Junior by four points, Ulster by a 119-66 rout. GH topped Rockland (minus Larry Frazier) by nine. UCCS beat Pittman-Frazier and company by 20 points, 98-78. GH has beaten Mitchell College twice, Housatonic twice and Norwalk once.

Coach Howard Bickeman approaches the Ulster game with philosophical resignation. "We have nothing to lose against Ulster and we'll give them the best game we can. It will be a good test for us."

"I don't think we'll lose by 50-60 points," Bickeman adds, "and if we do, I'll be disappointed. I haven't seen Ulster play but I've talked to the coaches of Mitchell and Post. They had nothing but nice things to say about them. We will probably play a zone because we only have a seven-man squad and can't afford to get into foul trouble playing man-for-man and pressing."

Coach Dick Baldwin, one of the titans in NJCAA history, has a 12-3 squad awaiting UCCS Saturday night in Binghamton.

Averaging 82 on offense, while yielding 69 points a game, the Hornets have straightened out after some early season stumbling.

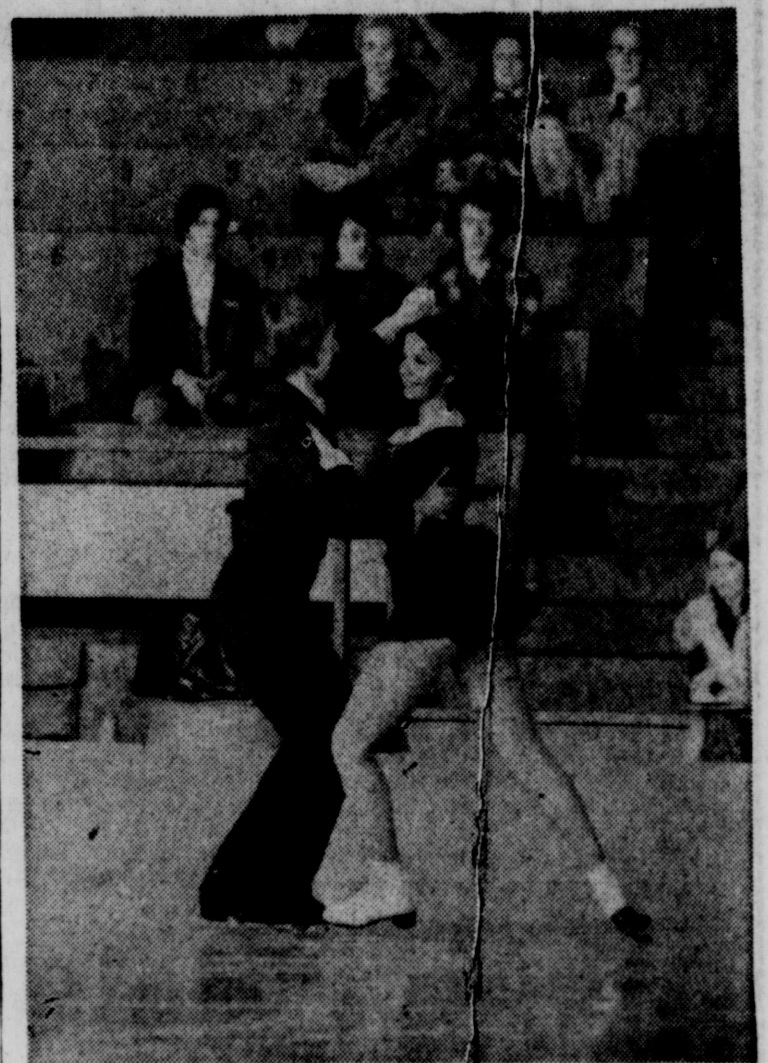

Broome's firepower comes from the backcourt duo of 6-2 Greg Baldwin (17.8 and 16.0) and 5-10 Larry Lobacz (16.0). They are senior co-captains.

Senior center Dave Brenner stretches all the way to 6-feet-10. The top rebounder is forward Bones Sanders 6-3, with 12 caroms per contest.

Ulster and Broome will be going for the rubber in this one. Broome won two years ago in the Hornet Classic and Ulster evened it last season at home.

Dick Baldwin knows all about Ulster. "They have a real fine team," says the man who claimed 560 career wins starting this season. "We had three men down with the flu last week but should be all set for this one. We're ready to play man-forman and zone against them when I saw them play down there. They have a definite edge on them. Okay, guys, let's win these Westchester well on the boards two for Mike."

Cosic Was Slightly Cosmic

By United Press International
Where would Brigham Young's basketball team be without that European flavor? Probably nowhere.

The two stars of the Brigham Young basketball team are Kresimir Cosic of Yugoslavia and Kalevi Sarkalahti of Finland, and without them the Cougars would certainly be hard-pressed to come up with a winning season.

Take Wednesday night for example. Cosic, a 6-foot-11 senior, scored 15 points, grabbed 19 rebounds, blocked seven shots and had a school record 12 assists as the Cougars whipped Niagara 93-83. Sarkalahti also played a big part in the victory with 25 points.

The Cougars trailed 44-40 at halftime but came out smoking in the second half and ran Niagara out of the gym. Bill Anderson was the Cougars' offensive sparkplug in the second half with 15 points, most of them coming off passes from Cosic.

In other games, fourth-ranked North Carolina defeated Wake Forest 99-80, 14th-ranked St. John's beat Clemson 87-59, 18th-ranked Florida State topped Stetson 84-67, 19th-ranked Vanderbilt downed Mississippi 59-49 and Louisville tied for 19th, nipped Dayton 74-73.

Freshman Mitch Kupchak scored 24 points, 16 of them in the second half, to spark North Carolina to its 14th victory in 15 starts. The Tar Heels led Wake Forest only 42-36 at halftime, but Kupchak scored eight points in less than a minute early in the second half to break open the Atlantic Coast Conference game.

St. John's led Clemson by just one point, 29-28, at halftime but forced 21 turnovers in the second half and won easily. The Redmen, paced by Bill Schaeffer's 21 points, outscored the Tigers 23-6 in the first six minutes of the second half to take charge of the game.

Florida State trailed 40-36 at halftime but switched to a zone defense in the second half and completely bewildered Stetson. Stetson stayed close until 10 minutes remained in the game when the Seminoles began pulling away. Reggie Royals led Florida State with 21 points.

Vanderbilt held Mississippi scoreless in the final seven minutes to overcome a five-point deficit and defeat the Rebels. The Commodores ran off 15 straight points in that stretch as they beat the Rebels for the second time this year. Bill Ligon led Vanderbilt with 21 points.

Louisville, led by Bill Butler's

20 points, withstood a furious closing rally by Dayton to edge the Flyers. The Cardinals led by five points, 74-69, with only 48 seconds to play, but Dayton scored twice in the final seconds to throw a scare into Louisville. Elsewhere, Notre Dame beat Pittsburgh 85-76 in overtime, Cincinnati downed Toledo 86-78, Marshall whipped Miami (O.) 90-70, Fordham beat Seton Hall 96-78 and Wisconsin-Milwaukee upset Manhattan 81-77.

affection for mate and get right response. Don't be so stingy where it counts the most. AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Look to that intelligent associate for cooperation on some big project you have in mind. Getting into civic work is your cup of tea right now. Add much to your public image. PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are able to get into the duties ahead of you and get them completed in record time, so get an early start on them. You are at the peak of your efficiency now. Taking health treatment in p.m. is wise. IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those young people who thinks big and can get big. Be sure to provide for a good education early so that the success possible here can be realized more easily. There is much personal attractiveness here which can be very helpful. Anything connected with the public, the masses, is fine here, since there is great scope to this mind, which literally roams the universe. Religion is important early, too. ## Jean Adams'

TEEN FORUM

PENALIZED: (Q.) I am being punished for something my brother did. He got a girl pregnant last summer and had to marry her.

Now when I go out on a date my mother sits up and I have to answer all kinds of detailed questions about what happened on the date I have to assure her, without actually saying it, that I didn't do anything with a boy to get pregnant.

They trusted me once. Why can't they trust me now? — 18 in Louisiana.

(A.) A family is not just two or three or four or more different people. It is a group of people whose lives intertwine. This intertwining is what makes many families so strong. The whole is stronger than the parts.

Your parents have gone through a traumatic experience that has hurt the family. Your mother naturally wants to avoid further hurts. So she guards you more closely. As the shock wears off, she will no doubt ease up in her concern about you. Try to cooperate with her as a labor of love. Do nothing to be ashamed of and answer her questions frankly.

Think also of moving to a place of your own—or with another young woman. If you are out of high school and working or going to college, it is time for you to take this step, or prepare for it.

"HIS" GIRL: (Q.) I want to date a lot of boys until I find the right one. But I am stuck in a rut with Wes. Right now we are broken up because he says he loves me and I know I don't love him.

We break up often, but I always have to go back to him. No other boys will date me. I "belong" to Wes. This is a small town. Everybody knows everybody else, and everybody knows I am "Wes's girl."

So even though I don't want to, I have to go back to him. There's nobody else for me to go out with. Help me. — In Chains in Alabama.

(A.) Many girls have your problem—and not all of them live in small towns. It is a tough problem, but there is an answer to it.

If you will persist in not dating Wes, the boys and girls (and adults too) who know you will wake up to the fact that you are not "his" girl any more.

It may take a month, or it may take a year. But you can do it. Then, when other boys start asking for dates, avoid tying yourself to just one until you find just the one for you.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Here is a hand that would have been easy to bid to three no-trump back in the thirties. North would respond two hearts (a one-round force) and rebid to three clubs after South went to two no-trump. South would continue to three no-trump and the hand would play there.

South has nearly all his strength in spades and diamonds and goes to three no-trump. North has told his story and passes.

You may also land at three no-trump with modern methods that do not include the transfer bid. North either jumps to three hearts and passes when South bids three no-trump or North responds with a Stayman two-club; bids three hearts after the two-spade ribbid and passes at three no-trump.

As we say, you might get there. When this hand was played in a regional pair game

Eighty-Three Jets Strike Near Saigon

U.S. Planes Bombard S. Vietnam

SAIGON (UPI) — American warplanes hit suspected Communist targets in South Vietnam late Wednesday and early today in their heaviest such raids in more than two months. U.S. military spokesmen said today. Eighty-three jets struck targets near Saigon.

The U.S. military command said much of the action by U.S. aircraft was in support of South Vietnamese ground troops engaged in a major battle near Saigon.

Jet fighter-bombers flew 335 twin-engine F4 Phantom jets in all of South Vietnam, the most since 352 sorties reported on Nov. 9, said South Vietnamese ground command, which reported troops lost 10 men killed and 83 jet strikes within 40 miles of more than 30 wounded.

Most of the jets, the missions—each mission was command said, strafed and about three planes—during the bombed between Tri Tam, 35 miles northwest of Saigon, and break up a suspected Communist rubber plantation five miles north of Saigon. Ten more missions further north which often is Saigon. The command also announced another accidental U.S. bomber in fighting Wednesday be-supply convoy moving up the UPI Reporter Sylvana Foa Vietnam was expected to reach said.

the capital of Phnom Penh. "They're all right now, but it today after running a gauntlet was very hairy for awhile," a of Communist fire from the transportation officer said. "If shore. it hadn't been for the American fuel and ammunition, was air support, there wouldn't be escorted by U.S. fighter jets, anything left of those ships."

Dem Leader Foresees Improvement in Relations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield foresees better relations and more understanding between President Nixon and the Democratic Congress when peace comes in Vietnam—but adds that other issues dividing them will remain.

He rejected the contention of Sen. Hugh Scott, the Republican leader, that congressional threats to cut off war spending have lengthened the Vietnam conflict.

"My reaction would be just the contrary," he said, "because the Congress provides the money and the Congress has a constitutional duty to play in any war in which we're engaged."

The Democratic leader said in an interview that a Vietnam settlement "will in my opinion react to the President's favor and bring about a better and more understanding feeling between the executive and legislative branches."

"But the other issues will remain because their effects run through the Congress, the impounding of funds and other great constitutional questions," Mansfield said.

Nixon is withholding some $8 billion in appropriations voted by Congress, in an administration drive to hold down the federal budget.

Mansfield said he believes "Congress will face up to its responsibilities" and invoke its own ceiling on federal spending.

"In effect, it has been forced to by the action which the President initiated last year to give him the right to set a spending ceiling," he said. "That would be clearly unconstitutional because the Constitution gives Congress the power of the purse. That would be a further dereliction of our responsibilities."

Watergate Trial . . . Ex-FBI Agent on Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — An ex-FBI agent testified in the Watergate trial that he was paid $225 a week by President Nixon's campaign staff for eavesdropping on Democratic party telephone conversations.

Alfred C. Baldwin III said he listened from morning until after dark and logged the contents of some 200 phone calls that a security agent for the Committee for the Re-election of the President had wiretapped.

Baldwin's testimony was interrupted Wednesday afternoon by a dispute over whether he should name those whose conversations he overheard. Lawyers for some of the bugged Democrats sought to keep their private affairs from being aired in court.

Lawyers in the case said U.S. Dist. Court Judge John J. Sirica ruled against the Democrats in a closed-door hearing. The attorneys said an appeal would be carried to the Court of Appeals today before the trial could continue.

On trial in the burglary-wiretap case are James W. McCord Jr., former security chief of the Nixon campaign, and G. Gordon Liddy, who was counsel to Nixon's campaign finance committee at the time of the break-in at Democratic headquarters last June.

Five others earlier pleaded guilty and are awaiting sentencing in connection with the alleged political-espionage conspiracy against Democrats. The alleged plot came to light after five of the seven were captured at gunpoint inside the Democratic National Committee offices in Washington's Watergate complex.

Baldwin said he first was hired at a salary of $70 a day as a bodyguard for Martha Mitchell, wife of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell who at the time was Nixon's campaign manager.

But after a week of that, Baldwin said, he was given other duties and a pay cut, and told "by Mr. McCord that, if Mr. Nixon was re-elected, this was the way to join the team and go up the ladder."

After one week as Mrs. Mitchell's bodyguard, Baldwin said, he was asked to attend protest demonstrations to learn of any possible threats to the Nixon committee, the Mitchells or to the President himself.

Later, Baldwin said, he entered the motel room which McCord had rented for him across the street from Democratic headquarters and found it filled with a variety of electronic equipment.

Baldwin said he was instructed to monitor transmissions on two frequencies carrying eavesdropped conversations from Democratic offices. But, because only one channel could be picked up, he testified, he moved from a room on the fourth floor of the Howard Johnson Motel to one on the seventh.

But the second frequency still did not come in. The government said in its opening statement that this was one of the reasons for the break-in in which the five were captured.

Judge Sirica Is Boss

WASHINGTON (AP) — He is 68 years old and there is an edge to his voice that can bring the most persistent lawyer to shame-faced silence. In the Watergate trial, there is no doubt that Judge John J. Sirica is the boss.

As chief judge of the U.S. District Court, he could have assigned the politically sensitive case to any of 22 other judges. But he took it himself.

"Control your emotions," Sirica told defense attorney Henry Rothblatt when he concluded the lawyer was straying too far afield in his opening statement. "Keep on an even keel and don't get your blood pressure up."

And when Rothblatt, representing four Miami defendants who have since pleaded guilty, continued in the same vein, Sirica stepped in again:

"I think you've gone about far enough. I've been fair to both sides but there's a limit. Let's get down to the details and find out who paid them. Was it purely political espionage; what was the purpose? If you are going to make an opening statement, let's make it."

That sort of impatience or failure to get to a point—or belaboring one—has characterized Sirica who has practiced law for 47 years, longer than most of the lawyers in the Watergate trial have been alive.

He showed his toughness at the outset when E. Howard Hunt pleaded guilty to three of six felony indictments, with the government agreeing to drop the others.

Sirica flatly refused to accept the deal.

"The court and the public have an interest in the just administration of criminal laws," he said. "And the court believes that such interest encompasses not only the substance of justice but also the appearance of justice."

"Given the nature of this case, the court is compelled to the conclusion that both the substance and the appearance of justice require that the tendered plea be refused."

When Hunt finally pleaded guilty to all six counts, the judge set bail at $100,000 and refused to lower it, saying he dealt equally with blue-collar and white-collar crime.

Sirica shows flashes of humor. Once, E. Gordon Liddy, one of the defendants, motioned to his lawyer to abandon an argument with the judge.

"I see you are getting some good advice from your client," he said.

Sirica received his degree from Georgetown University Law School in 1926 and has practiced as a private lawyer
